

British Honor Not Price of Peace, Premier Tells Commons

'Vital Interests' Won't Be Sacrificed, He Warns
DEFENDS HIS POLICY
Says 'No One Can Imagine We Have Reason
To Fear Any Foe'

London — (U-P) — Prime Minister Chamberlain declared in the house of commons today amid cheers, "let no one imagine that though we seek peace we are willing to sacrifice even for peace British honor and British vital interests."

The prime minister was defending his foreign policy in the last debate before a three-months parliamentary recess.

"Our aim is not the less peaceable because no one can imagine we have reason to fear any foe," he declared. Chamberlain asserted that the armed strength of the country became more formidable day by day and went on:

"But while that tremendous power remained as a guarantee that we could defend ourselves if we were attacked, we were not unmindful of the fact that though it was good to have a giant's strength it was tyrannous to use it."

Mediator Named
During the debate the prime minister announced that Viscount Runciman, former cabinet minister, had agreed to become investigator and mediator in the dispute between the Czechoslovak government and its autonomy-seeking German and other minorities.

He said that the former president of the board of trade would work independently of the British government in an effort to solve the problem which was disturbing Europe.

This step, Chamberlain said, was taken "in response to a request from the Czech government." But Lord Runciman would not have the powers of arbitration which Winston Churchill wanted him to invest if both sides of the Czech minority dispute agreed.

To Churchill, Chamberlain replied, "We have not yet heard from the Sudeten Germans."

Referring to King George's visit to France last week, the prime minister said "the friendship of France and Britain was in itself a solid buttress for peace."

"That unity," he said, was strengthened and confirmed by the conversations which took place between Lord Halifax and French ministers in Paris.

He declared there was no mystery about the conversations, adding that "there have been no new undertakings and no new commitments on either side—there was a general discussion of common interests."

Turning to Spain, Chamberlain announced that insurgent authorities had agreed to a British proposal for investigating bombing of British ships which appeared deliberate to the government.

He said the inquiry would be made by two naval officers one to be named by Britain and the other by the insurgents.

If they agreed an attack was deliberate, Chamberlain stated, the insurgents would pay immediate compensation. If they disagreed, the matter would be referred to a third party of British or Spanish nationality.

Auto Strikes Man After
He Falls From Viaduct
Watertown, Wis. — (U-P) — John Nobitsch, 50, of Racine, fell 17 feet from the top of a viaduct over Highway 19 yesterday and then was run over by an automobile. His hips were injured seriously.

Floyd Squires, Watertown, driver of the car, told authorities Nobitsch dropped directly in front of the car, and two wheels passed over him. Nobitsch was working with a special railroad crew.

'POISON' TARGET

Investigation of what was called an attempt to "poison" Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler (above) has been started in Kentucky. Major Joe Burman, chief of the Kentucky bureau of identification, said "we have our suspicions."

Frankfort, Ky. — (U-P) — Kentucky's highway patrol proceeded today with an investigation into the alleged "poisoning" of Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler.

Major Joe Burman, chief of the state bureau of identification, said it was "not the first time such a thing has happened during the campaign." Chandler is waging for the Democratic senatorial nomination against Senator Alben Barkley, senate majority leader.

"We have our suspicions," Major Burman said in promising an investigation "to determine who is responsible for the attempt on the governor's life."

Chandler, ill since Friday when he was stricken in a Louisville hotel, is the victim of a "doctored" with poison," Dr. J. W. Bryan, his Louisville physician, said in a statement. Dr. Bryan said he did not know what kind of poison it was but added "if consumed in sufficient quantities would have caused death."

"Desperate" Campaign
Addressing a radio audience from his bedside in the executive mansion last night, Chandler said, "no campaign in recent years has been so desperate."

He recalled that he had just finished a broadcast from his Louisville home.

Weirton Steel Co. Is Given Month to Hire New Attorney

Washington — (U-P) — The labor relations board gave the Weirton Steel company today a month to find a new counsel to replace Clyde A. Armstrong, barred by the board from defending Weirton against charges of unfair labor practices.

Armstrong had been ousted from the case for contemptuous conduct before Trial Examiner Edward G. Smith at Steubenville, Ohio, July 11.

The board upheld Smith's action yesterday, contending that Armstrong's behavior in a dispute over testimony of a steel company witness reflected "a calculated attempt to wrest control of the hearing from the board's duly designated agent."

Armstrong was expected to make a court appeal from the board's order.

The board said it would not resume taking testimony in the Weirton case until Aug. 24 "to enable respondent (Weirton) to retain other counsel or otherwise prepare to resume the presentation of its defense."

Pitcairn Island Isolated as Radio Fails; Typhoid Rumors Curb Trade

New York — (U-P) — Pitcairn island today was isolated from the world — the isolation Fletcher Christian and his mutinous band from H. M. S. Bounty sought in 1789, but which now threatens the island's food supply.

Racine — (U-P) — Lieutenant Arthur Muhlke was appointed acting chief today after the police and fire commission ordered Police Chief Grover C. Lutter suspended, in a special session last night, and called for a public hearing of 10 charges filed against the chief by Mayor Roy Spencer.

Racine — (U-P) — The police and fire commission ordered Police Chief Grover C. Lutter suspended, in a special session last night, and called for a public hearing of 10 charges filed against the chief by Mayor Roy Spencer.

The mayor filed his malfeasance charges against Chief Lutter after a gambling raid last Friday in which 117 persons were arrested and an estimated $15,000 worth of gambling paraphernalia confiscated.

Spencer's charges, aired last night, were: illegal retention of slot machines in the chief's private office, use of police squad cars for private purposes, use of intoxicating liquors while on duty, permitting open gambling on five specific spots in Racine, use of city supplies for his own purposes, leaving the city when he should have been directing operation of the police force, failure to maintain discipline, commanding city mechanics to repair his own cars, destroying morale by reprimanding officers for performing their duty, and conduct unbecoming an officer.

Hearing Aug. 4
The hearing was set for Aug. 4 at the city hall. Lutter will receive official notification of his suspension today from the city attorney, the commission decided.

Lutter, who will have opportunity to present witnesses in his own defense against Mayor Spencer's charges, has termed the affair a "dirty, lowdown trick" of political enemies "out to get my job." He was vacationing at Eagle Lake (Racine county) when the raids were carried out under Spencer's orders.

The commission, headed by Steven Thomas, said it took only one ballot in deciding to suspend Lutter, but would not disclose the vote.

Loyalists Gain Over Wide Front Cross Ebro River in General Advance in Southern Catalonia

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish frontier — (U-P) — A massed Spanish government army of 70,000 men surged across the broad Ebro river today in a general advance against insurgent lines along a 93-mile front in southern Catalonia.

The insurgents admitted the militiamen had gained a foothold on the west bank of the stream in Asco-Mora de Ebro sector where three columns drove toward Gandesa, regional insurgent headquarters, 14 miles west of the Ebro.

Many insurgent units had been pulled out of the long-quiet area to aid the drive on Valencia to the south.

The government reported the advance was general all the way from the Ebro delta at Amposta along the curving course of the stream to Mequinzena, about midway between Gandesa and Lerida.

The Ebro has been the frontier between insurgent territory and government — held Catalonia since Insurgent Generalissimo Franco's "East" campaign drove a wedge between Catalonia and the rest of Spain.

At dawn Monday shells began raining on insurgent positions across the river. Engineers rushed hasty bridges across which infantry streamed to assume positions already plotted from information gleaned by raiding parties.

Three Men Arrested in Puerto Rican Attack

Ponce, Puerto Rico — (U-P) — Three men described as nationalists were under arrest today and a fourth was sought for the attempted assassination of Major General Blanton Winship, governor of Puerto Rico.

Two Puerto Ricans, including Angel Esteban Antonzori, whom police listed among the assailants, were killed, and at least 31 hurt in a shooting affray following the attack yesterday while the governor was reviewing a parade celebrating American occupation of Puerto Rico 40 years ago. A national guard officer also was killed.

Says Mexican Action Likely To Hit Trade

Pittman Declares U. S.
Cannot Ignore Property Seizures

BACKS HULL'S STAND

Sees Note as Warning Nation Will Safeguard Citizens

Washington — (U-P) — Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) said today he believed that the course of this country's world trade might be profoundly affected by the controversy with Mexico over property seizures.

Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said the United States could not permit the situation to go unchallenged because it would tend to "weaken, if not destroy, the rights of our citizens under treaties of amity and commerce throughout the world."

For that reason, Pittman said, he regarded Secretary Hull's note on the land seizures as not only a warning to Mexico, but a notice to all other governments that this country will not permit confiscation of American-owned property abroad.

Farm lands owned by Americans, Hull's note said, has been taken over by the Mexican government since 1927. Hull emphasized the principle that there should be no expropriation of property without immediate payment of compensation to the owner.

Could Cripple Trade
Failure to maintain this principle in Mexico's seizure of oil and farm properties belonging to American citizens, Pittman said, would make such holdings the prey of unscrupulous governments in all portions of the world. The result, he predicted, would be severe crippling of this country's world trade.

Recounting Hull's statement of the difficulties encountered in attempting unsuccessfully to obtain arbitration of claims for Mexican property seizures dating back to 1915, Pittman said:

"It is evident that unless just compensation is made for such confiscation without further avoidance of the issue, that the good neighbor policy which our government has made such strenuous efforts to maintain will be destroyed."

"That would be very unfortunate for both countries, particularly Mexico, which has been receiving our financial aid."

Fail in Move to Prevent Inquest

Sidley Estate Executors
Attorney Tries to Stop Proceedings

Toronto — (Canadian Press) — A surprise move aimed at shutting off the inquest into the death of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, maled maled heirless, was made today by D. L. McCarthy, attorney for the executors of Mrs. Sidley's estate.

As the inquest opened, McCarthy sought to stop the proceedings on the ground that the coroner lacked jurisdiction to conduct such a hearing. The inquest was ordered by Attorney General Gordon Connat of Ontario.

McCarthy's grounds were:

1. The inquest order was not made until July 15, nine days after Mrs. Sidley's death and after her body had been sent to Racine, Wis., for burial.

2. The coroner, Dr. Smirle Lawson, had acted in his personal capacity as a physician by examining Mrs. Sidley at the request of her son, William.

The lawyer proposed amendment of what he called the "prostituted proceedings" until a decision of the supreme court of Ontario could be obtained on the point.

Dr. Lawson said McCarthy had no status at the inquest, asserting that no one was on trial. Without commenting further on McCarthy's objections, he opened the proceedings.

Mercury Lands at Horta On Her Return Flight

Horta, Azores — (U-P) — The British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury, returning from her trans-Atlantic test flight, arrived today at 1:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. C. S. T.) from Bo'wood, Newfoundland.

A little more than two hours ahead of the British plane, the German seaplane Nordmeer arrived from Port Washington, N. Y., at 11:23 a. m. (6:23 a. m. C. S. T.), having required 14 hours 23 minutes for the hop.

The Mercury was 8 hours 8 minutes out of Bitwood. She is returning by way of Lisbon, Portugal, and Southampton, England, to her base at Funchal, Madeira, where she was launched from the back of her mother ship, the flying boat Maia, for her first trans-Atlantic crossing July 20.

DIES OF INJURIES

Washington — (U-P) — Major A. V. Doherty (above), the last national prohibition director, died last night of injuries suffered Saturday when he was struck by an automobile. He was 62 years old. President Roosevelt appointed him to head the prohibition forces in 1935, a few months before repeal. Later he became a special assistant to the attorney general.

5 More Killed in Palestine Strife; Time Bomb Found

Police Prevent Explosion
In Arab Vegetable Market in Jerusalem

Haifa, Palestine — (U-P) — Five persons were killed today in the Holy Land's Arab-Jewish racial warfare which took 65 lives in Haifa yesterday.

Greater loss of life was averted when police found a time bomb in the crowded Arab vegetable market of old Jerusalem just in time to prevent an explosion.

The heavily-charged bomb was discovered by authorities at 3:45 a. m., just 15 minutes before it was set to explode. Police expressed the belief the bomb was similar to the one which exploded in this Haifa market yesterday.

Three members of a terrorist band were slain in a battle with special constables whom they had attacked.

Father and Son Slain
A Jewish father and his 14-year-old son were killed when they were ambushed near the Jewish settlement of Mishmar Hayarden on the banks of the Jordan river near the Syrian frontier.

Heavy smoke arising from incendiary bombs in the mixed quarters of Haifa cost a pall over the city as the death toll of yesterday's bombing mounted.

Casualties were placed at 65 dead and 107 wounded. Sixty-one of the victims were Arabs and four were Jews.

The city was gripped by fear of Arab retaliation.

Concerted Arab attacks on the Jewish populace were prevented by British machines standing guard with mounted light artillery at the boundaries of Arab-Jewish quarters.

Guns of the battle cruiser Repulse were trained on the lower section of Haifa, while Marines, soldiers and police patrolled the disturbed areas in armored cars.

Three Steel Firms Hint at Action for Wage Reductions

Washington — (U-P) — Republic, Inland and United States Steel officials, animated today, they might decide that steel wages are too high, in view of recent price reductions in the industry.

Republic asked a labor department board to delay a determination of wage minima for government contracts until there can be "a more thorough understanding and study of the present wage structure with relation to existing prices."

Wages always must "permit effective competition," said William Boye, spokesman for United States Steel subsidiaries.

CIO leaders have said they would strenuously resist any effort to renege wages; the CIO has contracts with many of the industry.

From Ernest S. Ballard, counsel for Inland Steel, came testimony that high wages cannot be maintained rigidly, "in the face of present economic conditions, without injury to employees and employers alike."

The board to which the steel company remarks were addressed is empowered under the Walsh-Healey act to recommend minimum wages which must be paid by companies filling government orders of $10,000 or more.

President in Direct Plea
For Barkley's Renomination

Washington — (U-P) — Democratic candidates in six states launched today their final campaigning this week before early-August primaries testing President Roosevelt's party leadership as well as their own vote-drawing power.

A week from today — Aug. 2 — primary election will take place in Kansas, Missouri, Virginia and West Virginia. Two days later Tennessee Democrats will pick their candidates, and Aug. 6 will come the bitterly contested Kentucky primary.

In no other intraparty race has the administration so large a stake in prestige as in Kentucky, where Senate Leader Alben W. Barkley is opposed for renomination by Governor A. B. Chandler.

Mr. Roosevelt made a direct appeal early in July for Barkley's renomination and reelection. His experience, he said, was needed in Washington.

Only national house members and state officials are up for nomination in the Virginia contest.

Missouri Contest
In Missouri Senator Bennett Champ Clark, who hasn't by any means gone the whole way with Mr. Roosevelt, is up for renomination. His opponents include two men who call themselves "100 per cent New Dealers" — Willis H. Merdith, former speaker of the Missouri house, and Joseph T. Davis, St. Louis mayor.

In Kansas, Senator George McFadden, a staunch Roosevelt supporter, is seeking renomination. His only Democratic opponent, Joe Doherty, filed at the last minute.

The Kansas Republican primary took on a measure of national importance when Chairman John Hamilton asked party voters not to nominate the Rev. Gerald Winrod for senator. Winrod was accused recently by a Kansas minister of being a Nazi sympathizer.

Other Republican candidates are Clyde M. Reed, former governor; Dallas Knapp, former state senator, and the Rev. J. C. Fisher.

In Tennessee the issue of state control of the Democratic party overshadows all other questions. The forces of E. H. Crump, Memphis political leader, and Senator K. O. McCellar are lined up against those of Governor Gordon Browning, who is seeking renomination.

Japanese Set for Drive on Hankow

Nipponese Command
Claims Occupation of Kiukiang Clears Way

Shanghai — (U-P) — The Japanese command announced its army had at last opened a path for a major offensive against Hankow today by occupying Kiukiang and thereby breaking the principal Chinese defense line in the Yangtze valley.

Kiukiang is 135 miles down the Yangtze river from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital. The Japanese had tried more than three weeks to force entry into the city.

The army of Nippon entered it this morning, the Japanese announced, after Chinese defenses began to crumble late Monday night.

Chinese claims to the contrary, the Japanese said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's troops were retreating to the west and south, presumably hoping later to swing back north to form new defenses for the capital.

While the army completed its occupation of Kiukiang, the Japanese announced related, Japanese warships advanced slowly through more fields in the Yangtze and, with army and navy air forces, joined in shelling and bombing the retreating Chinese.

Chinese asserted the Japanese had landed 10,000 fresh troops and 100 tanks at Hukow in preparation for the final thrust against Kiukiang.

Slaying Near East Troy Is Being Probed

Threatens to List
Candidates Failing
To Report Expenses

Washington — (U-P) — Senator Shepard (D-Texas) threatened today to make public the names of senatorial candidates who have failed to report their expenses to the campaign expenditures committee.

"If a candidate refuses to fill out our questionnaire, I believe the people in his state should know that fact," said Shepard, committee chairman.

The senate committee will meet tomorrow to consider complaints of improper political practices in seven states: Kentucky, Tennessee and Pennsylvania, Illinois, Missouri, Georgia and North Dakota.

Committee investigators will report on inquiries they have made in Kentucky, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. A suggestion for an investigation into expenditures in the Illinois primary was made yesterday by A. H. Greening of Springfield, Ill.

Suspended U. A. W. Officers Turned Away From Trial

Gain Admission to Detroit
Office After Guards
Repel Them Twice

Detroit — (U-P) — Four suspended officers of the United Automobile Workers, whose supporters staged a sit-down demonstration in union headquarters yesterday, were turned away twice from close-guarded office doors this morning before they finally gained admission to their scheduled trial before the U.A.W.A. executive board.

The board was called to meet at 9:30 a. m. C.S.T. for a delayed start of the trial. It was not until half an hour later that the four defendants and Maurice Sugar, their attorney, succeeded in convincing the guards posted by Homer Martin that they had "official business" with the board.

More than one hundred supporters of Martin, U.A.W. president, whose suspension of the officers precipitated a bitter internal fight in the CIO union, were on guard at the suite of union offices where the trial was to be held.

The executive board began its session, apparently drawing up rules of procedure for the trial, while the "defendants" and their attorney sat in a separate office waiting to be called.

On two elevator trips to the eleventh floor U.A.W.A. offices, the suspended vice presidents and their attorney were informed they needed "passes" to enter the union headquarters.

Finally, Maurice Silverman, advertising solicitor of the U.A.W.A.'s newspaper, who came out of a lift fight with a bloody nose yesterday when he tried to turn back members of an anti-Martin group, acted as escort to lead the men into the executive board room.

Laona Man Nabbed In Milwaukee on Charge of Assault

Milwaukee — (U-P) — Kenneth Allen, 31, of Laona, Wis., was arrested late yesterday by police here at the request of Bessemer (Mich.) authorities who have a warrant charging Allen with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Allen was arraigned today in district court on a fugitive warrant and the case adjourned until Aug. 4. Bond was set at $1,000.

Leonard J. Mananman, Geogebie county prosecutor, said Allen was charged with taking part in an attack on Henry Paull, Duluth, Minn., labor attorney, by a group of vigilantes during the lumberjack strike in the upper Michigan peninsula in June, 1937.

Paull was badly beaten June 30, 1937, by vigilantes who seized him at Bessemer and dumped him out of their car near Saxen, Wis.

SEC Controversy and Resolution on Black Appointment Before U. S. Bar

Cleveland — (U-P) — The American Bar association turned the rostrum over to its multifarious committees today, leaving a controversy with the securities and exchange commission and a resolution on the appointment of Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black hanging fire.

Black hanging fire. The SEC questioned the fairness of a report on administrative law by a committee headed by Dean Emeritus Roscoe Pound of Harvard law school and asserted the committee had "defamed" Commission Chairman William O. Douglas.

The committee mentioned SEC in a discussion of a "tendency to make decisions on the basis of preformed opinions and prejudices."

The resolution regarding Justice Black was presented by Edward T. Lee, dean of John Marshall Law school, Chicago.

He asked that the association petition the supreme court to determine whether a member of its bar . . . is not entitled to call to the attention of the court the presence on its bench of an individual who, it is believed and asserted, sits there without constitutional authority, because of the provision in the constitution providing that no senator or representative shall be elected the time for which he was elected. He be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States.

Pathologist Says After Autopsy 'It Had to Be Murder'

BODY IN RAVINE
Information in Possession
May Solve Crime,
Officer Says

Elkhorn, Wis. — (U-P) — Expressing belief that an unidentified man of about 40 whose body was found in an isolated ravine near East Troy was murdered, Sheriff Joseph Dorr declared he possessed information today which might result in a quick solution of the case.

Dorr said the body was discovered yesterday in a damp hollow in Spring Prairie township, Walworth county, about 10 miles north of here, by George Recknagle, a farmer, on unused land belonging to a neighbor, John Meyers.

Dr. Edward L. Tharinger, Milwaukee pathologist, said after an autopsy it "had to be murder." He asserted the man had been shot, probably by a .45 pistol, the bullet entering near the top of the skull and emerging below the right eye.

Dr. Tharinger also said he found a bone fracture in the throat, apparently from choking.

Delays Inquest
Coroner William F. Best of Lake Geneva swore in a jury by starlight last night but postponed the inquest. The body was interred in East Troy cemetery.

Dr. S. G. Meany of East Troy, who made an earlier study of the body, told District Attorney William H. Freytag the man had been dead at least two weeks, perhaps three.

The man was described as about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds. The left eye, Dr. Tharinger said, was shorter than the right and apparently had been fractured recently.

Dr. Tharinger said the lungs were dark and discolored, evidence of city residence.

Body Taken From Auto
"There is no question but that it was murder, and it has been definitely established that the body had been taken from an automobile and dragged along a path leading from the road to the bushes," Dorr said. The sheriff declared that pointing strongly to a "ride" murder theory was the fact the man's shoes were fairly new and unscratched, with no marks from rough gravel roads in the vicinity.

Across the man's face and partly obscuring his mouth, Dorr disclosed, were remnants of what looked like gauze or mosquito netting, which Dorr said may have been used as a gag or blindfold.

After Recknagle led Dorr to the body, the sheriff closed off the area. Search for the bullet and pistol was fruitless.

Italian Fascists are Pledged to 'Aryanism'

Charges are Cut Short in Congress TVA Investigation Committee Agrees to Move To More Constructive Phases

Knoxville, Tenn. — (P) — But charges and counter-charges in the congressional investigation of the TVA were cut short today when the committee agreed to move on to "the more constructive phases" of the inquiry.

Director David F. Lilienthal had returned to the stand for the fourth day and was reading a lengthy document answering charges by Dr. Arthur H. Morgan, chief of TVA, chairman, when committee members voiced their impatience with continued personalities.

Lilienthal had accused Dr. Morgan of "collaboration" with private utility executives in 1936 on a plan for power pooling and concealing his actions from the TVA board.

He likewise had denied charges by Dr. Morgan that he released false publicity concerning his negotiations with Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, for the sale of properties to public interests.

Only three committee members were present when Lilienthal's testimony was cut short and he was asked to submit his contentions for the record without reading them from the stand.

The members were Senator Lynn Frazier (R-N.D.), Senator N. H. Schwartz (D-Wyo.), and Representative Charles Wolcott (R-N.H.).

Lilienthal had read about four pages of a 23-page statement when Frazier broke in to say that too much time was being taken in reading lengthy documents. He suggested Lilienthal submit them for the record.

"It would suit me," the director replied. "I'm not enjoying this either. I'm not doing this because of something I initiated but I have my honor and the honor of TVA to defend."

Describes Maritime Body's Plans to Revive Merchant Marine and Train Personnel

Milwaukee — (P) — Bear Admiral H. A. Wiley, retired, told Great Lakes port authority officials today of the United States maritime commission's program to revive the American Merchant Marine and operate it with skilled men carefully trained in government schools.

The officials are attending a hearing by the Great Lakes and Central West Michigan commission for the purpose of analyzing foreign commerce needs of the Great Lakes.

From the standpoint of national defense, the navy department has estimated the nation's maritime needs will be 500 new merchant ships of various types in the next 10 years. Admiral Wiley said. Based on current cost, the vessels will mean a total outlay of about $2,500,000,000.

This construction program now is under way. Contracts for building of 37 new ships have been let. The commission plans to build 24 more for use in the Pacific ocean.

Trained Crews Needed

"It can be seen that the commission already has in sight its first year's program under its reconstruction plans," the admiral said.

"As important as new ships are to the restoration of the American Merchant Marine, trained crews are equally essential.

"In the past, we not only failed to make replacements, but we took no steps to give the men who man our

Father Sprangers Observes Fortieth Anniversary of Ordination to Priesthood

Little Chute — The Very Rev. John J. Sprangers, pastor of St. John church, observed the fortieth anniversary of his ordination into the priesthood Monday. Solemn high mass was sung at 9 o'clock in the morning by Father Sprangers, assisted by the Rev. Herb of New London, the Rev. Henry Kuhl of Anwa and the Rev. Theodore Verbeten of Elcho. The mass was attended by the former assistant pastor, relatives of Father Sprangers and by several hundred parishioners.

Special music was offered by the choir of St. John church. After these services a dinner was served to about sixty guests.

Father Sprangers was ordained to the priesthood July 25, 1898, at the church of the Most Holy Trinity at Innsbruck, Austria, by the Most Rev. Bishop Simon Aichner. He came to America to say his first solemn mass at St. George church, town of Wilton, Sheboygan county, Aug. 16, 1898. His elementary education was secured in St. George parochial school, Wilton. He returned to Innsbruck for further studies but was forced to discontinue because of ill health.

He returned to the United States and became secretary to the Most Rev. Bishop Messmer from Sept. 15, 1899, until June 25, 1902. On June 29, 1902, he became resident pastor of St. John church at Brillion, Wis., position he held until March, 1907, when he became pastor of St. Paul church at Wrightstown. In 1908 he was made superintendent of St. Joseph orphanage at Green Bay remaining there until Nov. 26, 1915, when he came to Little Chute as the first American-born priest to take charge of St. John parish.

Many church societies have been organized by the Rev. Father Sprangers, among which are the Senior and Junior Holy Name societies, the St. Agnes sodality and the St. John Bechmans Sanctuary society.

Many improvements have been made in the parish by Father Sprangers including the erection of the first Catholic high school in Little Chute. In December, 1930, he was appointed dean of Outagamie county and on May 28, 1932, he became a consultant of the diocese.

Among the out-of-town members of the clergy who attended the affair were: the Rev. Paul Herb, New London; the Rev. Theodore Verbeten, Elcho; the Rev. James Kools, Glenmore; the Rev. James Gevel, Chilton; the Rev. C. Luke Leisterman, Ashkosh; the Rev. Joseph Jansen, Aurora; the Rev. C. B. Vandenberg, Kimberly; the Rev. Francis De Jacob, Covington, Ky.; the Rev. Peter Salm, St. John; the Rev. Alfred Hetpas, Kimberly; the Rev. Raymond Hupacas, De Pere; the Rev. Mgr. J. Hummel, Menasha; the Rev. Henry Kuhl, Anwa.

Governor Earle Tries to Block Grand Jury Probe Pushes Program to Stop Investigation of Himself, Associates

Harrisburg, Pa. — (P) — Pennsylvania's New Deal leadership, responding to the plea of Governor George H. Earle, drove forward in the legislature today a 5-point program to block a grand jury investigation of Earle and 13 political associates.

In special session only a few hours, the Democratic-controlled general assembly already had before it bills to accomplish these wishes of the chief executive, target of blackmail, extortion and coercion charges growing out of the springing of a grand jury investigation called for August in Dauphin county (Harrisburg) court by District Attorney Carl B. Shelley, a Republican.

2—Creation of a house committee to take over the inquiry, subpoena Shelley and his records, and former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti who first fired some of the charges in his unsuccessful bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

3—Assurance that an attorney general can always supersede a county prosecutor in criminal cases.

4—Immunity for civic officials from what Earle termed "star chamber" proceedings by requiring grand jury evidence against impeachable individuals to be presented in public with the accused being given the right to testify in his own behalf.

Defining the legislature's powers so the house can supersede a county grand jury in any investigation of civil officials.

The inside of the dwelling will be remodeled and an outside stairway will be built. Cost of the improvements are estimated at $300. When the permit for the work was granted, the Post-Crescent carried the address of the home to be remodeled at 1220 N. Durkee street because of misinformation.

Congressman Schneider At Hearing in Milwaukee

Congressman George J. Schneider left this morning for Milwaukee to attend a hearing of the Federal Maritime commission regarding a project to open Milwaukee and other Great Lakes cities to water route foreign trade. While in Milwaukee the congressman will confer with engineers of the war department concerning river and harbor projects in the Eighth district.

Congressman Schneider spoke at a meeting of commercial fishermen at Green Bay last night on interstate regulations.

Japs, Soviets are Pulling Noses to See Who'll Fight Disputed Zone in Present Exchange of Notes Isn't Worth Much

New York — (P) — The vigorous nose-pulling indulged in by Russia and Japan the last few days, over a Soviet-Manchoukuo border "incident," was largely in the nature of trial-balloon flying—each trying to find out whether the other was in a mood for a real scrap.

These two old enemies do this sort of thing about once in so often—looking for possible weakness—on the theory strongly held in both capitals that a Russo-Japanese war is inevitable sooner or later.

The latest bit of sparring revolved about the occupation by Russian troops of a piece of ground claimed by both the Soviet and Manchoukuo. It was asserted the Muscovites were fortifying this hill, Japan, as overlord of Manchoukuo, promptly told Moscow in doggy language to get off that lot—or else.

Soviet Foreign Minister Litvinoff responded in almost so many words that Japan might scare others but couldn't get away with big stick stuff in dealing with Russia.

That's where the matter stands now—with Japan denying any intention of pressing the dispute. Each country is busy assaying the results of this clash to see if there's any information worth while in it.

So far as the disputed zone is concerned, neither country would fight over its actual value. It may be worth a bit more than a township sit in the Sahara desert. However, it would furnish ample cause for war if the two countries decided the time had arrived for a trial at arms.

Take Applications for Tax Listing Position

The executive committee of the county board yesterday at the courthouse decided to engage a person to operate the newly purchased tax listing equipment. Applicants will appear before the committee at a meeting at 9:30 Monday morning, Aug. 15, and the person selected will start work on Sept. 1 at a salary of $75 per month.

Notice that the Kaukauna city council received the assessed valuation of the Motocraft Foundry and Machine company to $100,000 was received and filed. The committee at a recent meeting recommended reducing the taxes and interest against the company provided the council reduced the assessed valuation and the matter will be considered by the county board at its session next month.

Green Company Crew Finishes Intersection

Resurfacing of the large intersection at Memorial drive and College avenue was completed today by the Charles A. Green and Son company, according to a company official.

Tuesday the crew will begin work on the block between Memorial drive and State street on the avenue. Carson Green said the work was somewhat delayed by the extra amount of resurfacing done at the Memorial drive corner.

Erect Backstops for City Park Net Courts

Backstops for the two new tennis courts at City park were being erected by park board workmen today. The final coating of black top will be laid on the two courts Tuesday or Wednesday and the courts will be ready for play before the end of the week.

Lawrence Graduate Takes Chance at Box Making Industry--and It Works

Two years ago John R. Newbury, Lawrence graduate whose home is in Burlington, Wis., overheard a conversation in a candy store in Appleton. A salesman from a box company in Green Bay was going broke. Newbury got an idea. He didn't know anything about the box manufacturing industry.

But he decided he'd take a chance.

He went to Green Bay where the defunct box firm was offered for sale. "I bid a dollar more than the next fellow," he says in recalling the day that started him out as the head of a company.

Today he has a modest but thriving business which operates in the old Appleton water department building on Water street. Newbury's firm is known as the Appleton Paper Products. He doesn't have a big sales force or wide distribution.

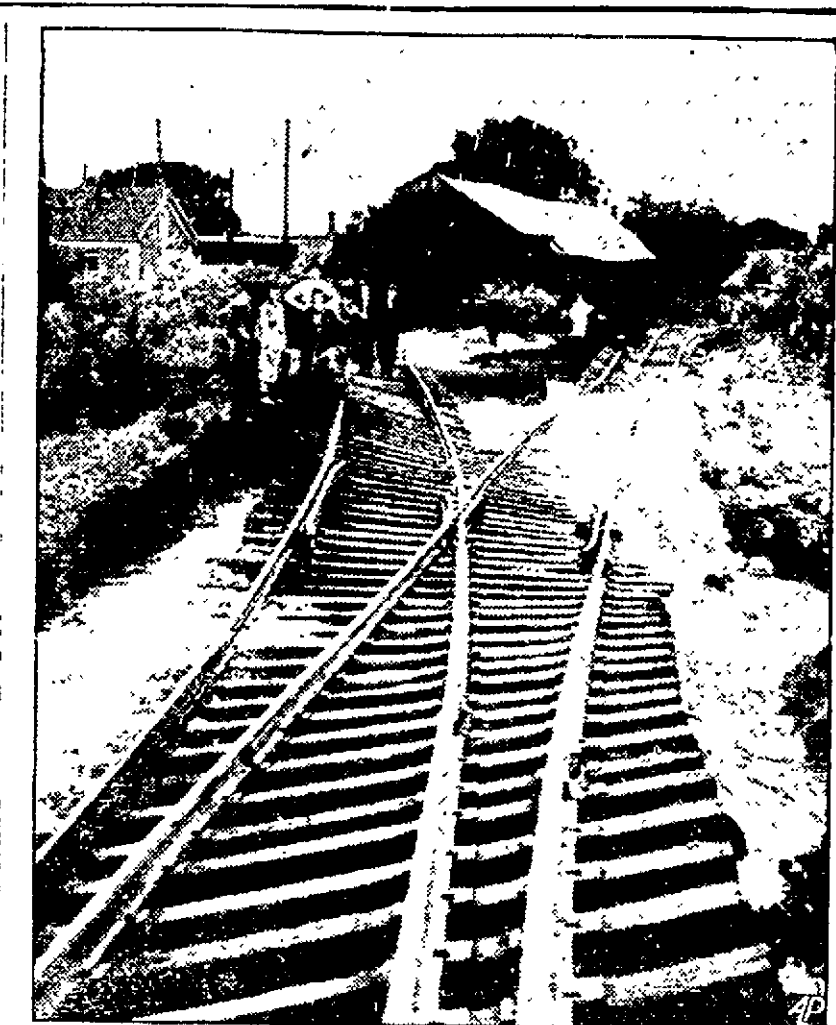

In fact, his products stay pretty much within this territory. Green Bay and Stevens Point are his most distant markets.

Newbury employs three girls and a man. He makes what he calls a Set-Up box. He sells his products to department and candy stores, gift shops, knitting mills and hairpin companies.

Last fall's recession didn't bother his business, Newbury says. Sales began diminishing in January and were rather slow during the winter, but that's to be expected. The lively period is just starting now and will continue through Christmas.

When people are giving gifts to one another—as they do at Christmas time—the box industry steps up.

Newbury buys his paper board from firms outside the valley. There's no mill here that makes just the type of material he needs, he says. The last carload came from St. Paul.

70 Scouts at Gardner Dam For Third Week of Season

Gardner Dam — The third period of our valley council scout camp began Sunday afternoon, as 70 new scouts invaded Gardner Dam and 90 boys left for home.

In the morning, all the old campers packed their duffel in preparation for departure. At 10 o'clock church services were held for Protestant boys in the council ring and for Catholic recruits in the Lodge.

Dinner bells at 12:30 in the afternoon didn't have to be rung twice, for all the campers knew what a grand meal was ahead. All awards for excellent or fair campers were made after dinner. A red arrow insignia stands for an honor camper. Green arrows are presented to satisfactory campers.

Honor Campers

Satisfactory campers who were presented with green arrows are: Bernard Davidson, Merlin Dunsirn, Howard Farrand, Carlton Fredricks, Tom Frawley, Bob Gillette, Jim Heenan, Fred Heinritz, Chester Heinritz, Merlin Kimball, John Milhaupt, Bill Nack, Eugene Pegel, Evan Pegel, Tom Rogers, George Schuffen, Don Stoeffel, Jerome Timmes, Bill Tomow, Bud Treiber, Reno Utschig, and John Van Deusen, all of Appleton; James LaViolette, Leon Polisek, and Bob Pelshek of Clintonville; Bob Bodinski, Tom Hatchell, Jack Ledy, and Jim Mulholland, Kaukauna; Mark Anderson, Bob Lansing, Charles Levick, Bill Murphy, Phil Nash, Ralph Parker, Don Rine, Ray Ruchschner, Walter Ulrich, and Hugh Zimmerman, all of Neenah; and Jim Beers, Shorewood.

Going and Coming

By 3 o'clock in the afternoon almost all of the Indian Week campers had vacated camp until another year and by 5 o'clock the new contingent of scouts had arrived and registered. This week boys from Appleton, Neenah, Seymour, and Marion will make friendships with one another. Until supper, these campers acquainted themselves with the camp and got settled in their new quarters.

Becoming acquainted is one of the problems of any gathering, so a big get-together council was held in the Lodge at night and every camper and staffman was introduced. Shortly before this meeting various patrol groups met and chose both leaders and names. Among the titles of these patrols the most appropriate for Paul Bunyan period are the Blue Oxkeepers, Johnny Inkinglers, Bucksaws, Feet Bunions, Big Swedes, and the Nanyub Luap (read it backwards) patrol.

Rangoon, Burma — (P) — Reinforcements of British troops were rushed to Rangoon today when 40 persons were injured in a riot between Burma Buddhists and Indian Mohammedans.

The clash, which occurred in the crowded bazaar area, was believed to have been the result of tense feeling following publication of a book by a Mohammedan, allegedly insulting Buddhism.

The rioters wielded knives and hurled bricks, sticks and soda water bottles.

Wisconsin's Expensive Pension System Makes Little Difference In Operation of Homes for Aged

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Contrary to the predictions made in 1935, when Wisconsin's old age pension system came into being, Wisconsin's homes for aged, traditional last resorts for the impoverished aged and other dependent persons, will not be eliminated by the old age pension program, according to the showing made during the last three years.

With one or two exceptions in which other factors played an important part, those counties and municipalities which maintained homes before the inauguration of the extensive, and expensive, old age pensions are operating them just as they did before, with generally little difference in the number of inmates.

When the state social security program was being debated before the legislature several years back, proponents among other things argued that the "over the hill" institutions would vanish with the beginning of an old age pension benefit program. They would join the long list of pioneer American institutions which modern social legislation has abolished.

Other States Hastily

This argument was reinforced by the fact that other states had closed their homes for the aged. Today, however, state officials in charge of welfare work believe these other states have acted too soon, that homes for aged still are a necessary part of the public facilities for the aged and the poor, and that old age pensions make little or no difference in taking up the load.

According to official estimates of the state pension department, there has been a drop of only three hundred in the population of the 52 city and county homes in Wisconsin during the last three years, from 1934 through 1937.

Although the state can exercise no compulsion in the collection of statistics on county homes because they are exclusively local institutions, statisticians are confident that they can draw accurate conclusions from such statistics as are available.

The only county home in the immediate Fox River Valley section is the Brown county institution. (The city of Appleton maintains a home but its management has refused for several years to file statistical reports.)

Decline Is Gradual

In the 1933 fiscal year the Brown county home had an average of 63 patients. In 1934 there were 65, in 1935 61.5, in 1936 60.6, and in 1937 58.5, showing a very gradual decline in population, despite the fact that the state old age assistance rolls were climbing rapidly during that period.

There are reasons for this failure of the old age pension system to absorb the inmates of the poor homes, state experts point out, on the basis of the experience of the last couple of years. One reason is that non-citizen inmates are not eligible for pensions.

During a recent 14 month period, the pension department's chief statistician, G. B. Wood, pointed out, 10,500 new pensioners were added to the roll, and of these only 80 were residents of public institutions at the time of the grant.

"There are a number of reasons why the shift from county homes to pension rolls has been slight. One reason is that a considerable group of aged persons now in institutions are not eligible—they are aliens, or they are persons whose age cannot be ascertained. There is another large group for whom no one will be responsible if they were pensioned and dismissed from the county home. They are unable to care for themselves and are with-

WDA to be Set Up Immediately

John A. Becker Appointed Assistant General Manager of Authority

Madison — (P) — John A. Becker, Wisconsin Coordinator for the rural electrification administration, who was appointed assistant general manager of the Wisconsin Development authority today, said that the WDA "would be set up immediately."

"The first activity of the WDA will be the expansion of the general educational activities in the rural electrification field," Becker said.

He added that steps have already been taken to establish an engineering unit of WDA, which will be part of its private activity. The engineering department, Becker declared, can provide assistance to rural electric cooperatives in both their pre-allocation and construction stages.

Becker, who will receive an annual salary of $4,000, will have a yearly appropriation of $80,000 at his disposal for WDA work. He will select a staff and office quarters in cooperation with Thomas Davlin, chairman of the highway commission who is the WDA secretary.

No appointment of manager has yet been announced. Davlin said: "It is our intention eventually to employ a general manager. Up to the present, however, we have been unable to obtain anyone we consider the proper person for the job."

Under the CAPITOLDOME

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison — Politically the event which will overshadow all others in Wisconsin this summer — in interest and almost certainly in practical results — is the visit of President Roosevelt, which now seems to be set for late August.

While the Washington dopesters and a good many upstate politicians still appear to believe that Mr. Roosevelt on his visit will slap the National Progressives of America and the governor himself for their disrespectful attitude toward the New Deal, the best capital opinion has inclined to the belief that the president will confine himself to an endorsement of Senator Duffy. As he did when he visited the state in 1934 — when Schmedeman was LaFollette's opponent — the president will skip over the Democratic state ticket and tactfully accept the prospect of its defeat by the Progressives.

However, that does not mean that the Progressives will feel obligated to return the favor. Although there is much supposedly expert information circulating about the effect that the LaFollette-Roosevelt breach is not what it seems, that Washington will arrange for the Democrats to soft-pedal their campaign against Governor LaFollette's fourth term candidacy in return for Progressive support for Duffy and a sacrifice of their own candidate, it should be plain to everyone now that such developments are purely imaginary.

NO COMPROMISE
The intra party-contest for the Progressive senate nomination should give a pretty good idea that the Progressives have no thought of surrendering an opportunity to get another U. S. senate seat. Further, one who has contributed as heavily to the party's campaign chest as Herman Louis Ekern isn't going to take kindly to the proposal that he allow Duffy to win, whether the proposition comes from high or low sources in his party. Nor is it hard to imagine what blunt Tom Amle's reaction to such an idea will be.

Finally, the Progressives, since the prestige of their national party will hang in the balance have more to gain from a senate victory than the New Deal Democrats, who should have a pretty good idea by this time that Duffy's heart frequently hasn't been with the New Deal program.

BETWEEN THE LINES
For those who like to read between the lines of political speeches and public statements, Herman Ekern's announcement on his senate candidacy is particularly available. Most noteworthy, in the light of the governor's most criticized "mollycoddling" and "spoon-feeding" remarks a few weeks ago, is Ekern's admission that WPA must be continued. Then consider his demand that American markets be safeguarded for American production, remembering at the same time the traditional LaFollette low tariff attitude.

Following some catchy phrases for youth, for whom he wants jobs, and the aged who should have bigger pensions, the lieutenant governor carefully relates that "Wisconsin has always been my home," to forestall the inevitable opposition charge that he is a resident of Illinois, where he still maintains a home, and where he accumulated much of his fortune. Remembering also that Ekern's Progressive party strength—no one knows just how strong he is—is among the old-timers, note the recitation of his association with and his services to "Old Bob" Opponent Amle cannot claim such a record. Ekern was a member of the legislature while Amle was in swaddling clothes out on the plains of North Dakota.

DEMOCRATS NOTE
With all the current talk about the President's visit to Wisconsin to give the faltering Democrats a victory push, it is important to note that on at least one important Roosevelt proposition New Dealer Ryan Duffy was outdone by Progressive Tom Amle, whose candidacy Duffy now regards with such bitter unconcern, in public at least. Amle joyfully supported the president's ill-fated supreme court bill, while Duffy today has not clarified his non-committal attitude. (The Republicans can be relied upon to ask Duffy about that this summer, you may be sure.)

One of the diverting prospects of the current senate campaign, incidentally, is that of Norwegian Amle campaigning in the Norwegian counties of southern Wisconsin and the Mississippi border. Amle has a rich, natural Norwegian accent which he can bring into full play when it seems desirable, and is sometimes envied by other Progressive politicians.

POLITICS IN BRIEF
The idea of geographic distribution, once considered so important, doesn't carry much weight in today's politics in Wisconsin. Progressives have three top-notchers on their tickets, LaFollette, Levitan and Ekern, who live in Madison, while Dammann has lived in the capital city long enough to be a bona-fide Madisonian. Democrats are now talking about a ticket which includes four or five persons from the Milwaukee area. Northern Wisconsin appears slated for complete neglect by the ticket-makers.

Glenn Frank, a year ago considered in many informed quarters as the most likely prospect for a Republican senate or governorship campaign in 1938, has now entirely faded from the state political picture, apparently as the result of party indifference. For Frank has not been too busy; he is making himself available for less important engagements than Wisconsin Republican meetings.

Senator Duffy has not said so, but some of his aides have. He has picked Edward Samp and Alexander Wiley for a neck and neck finish in the Republican senate primary. If Milwaukee's Stafford should withdraw he feels Samp will be the winner.

John B. Chapple, now asking his home town folks to chip in to pay the expenses remaining from his last campaign, says he is running for the Republican senate nomination, but few observers expect him to file for the 1940 governorship race, which will probably be wide open.

There is a politician in Wisconsin—this is something to be read over twice—who admits to his constituents that he likes the salary connected with office-holding. "Goldy" Goldthorpe, who never makes a speech but says it with music, is out for reelection to the assembly from Grant county. His principal campaigning stunt is touring his family band, made up of his copious brood of children.

IMMELL'S HAND
The state's jaunty, paunchy adjutant general, Ralph M. Immell, doesn't like the impression that has gone out on his supposedly militaristic psychology. He has issued a public statement about it.

At the same time he is showing no bashfulness in taking a personal part in the candidate situation in important spots.

For example, it is pretty well known that Immell is behind the candidacy of Olaf Johnson, the REA man who is running for lieutenant governor. One of the reasons is that the general knows quite well that the lieutenant governor next year is going to be a lot more important than a lieutenant governor was meant to be. General LaFollette, if he is reelected, will spend a great share of his time organizing his new party in other states. The general has his eye on the governorship in 1940. What better opportunity to make preparations?

Friends of Paul Afonsi, self-willed speaker of the 1937 assembly, who likes giving orders better than taking them, are also accusing Immell of meddling in Afonsi's reelection campaign in Iron county.

CAPITAL MISCELLANY
The governor has told his party subordinates that he wants primary contests for all offices, high or low. Who will oppose him, capital goes up want to know. . . . The left-wing Workers Alliance (WPA union) is angrily excited at the supposedly scheduled deposition of P. D. Flanner, from the WPA by the Democrats in favor of ex-sheriff Joe Shinnors of Milwaukee county. . . . James Martin, Thienerville, one of the endorsed candidates of the Democratic organization for secretary of state, is the taxpayer in whose name loquacious W. B. Rubin brought action against the appointment of H. L. Ekern to the lieutenant governorship a couple of weeks ago. . . . A story from the Henry for Governor headquarters says that Henry's candidacy was the only thing which kept Kohler out of the race this year. Kohler is for Henry, it is said. . . . Commissioner Harry McLogan of the industrial commission, industriously campaigning for district attorney in Milwaukee county, answers criticism against his political activity while on the state payroll at $100 a week with "I have a vacation due me." . . . The FLPP's pretense of putting up a state ticket got another blow when Ted Dammann's refusal to run as its candidate for governor. Asked whether he would notify the federation formally, he replied, "of course not; I'm not responsible to them." . . . Progressives are concerned about finding a good congressional candidate to pit against Rep. Mike Reilly and Frank B. Keeffe in the Lawe Winnebago district. . . . The solidly Progressive voters of Dane county are being presented with a horde of eager Progressives hunting office.

Fireplaces Will Be Constructed At Grignon Park

Crew of 20 NYA Workers Is Completing Work On Paths

Kaukauna—Construction of fireplaces in Grignon park, where a crew of 20 NYA youths is employed in making improvements, will be started soon, according to Elmer Grebe, second district project supervisor. The making of paths through the park has been almost completed.

Improvement of the park is both a summer and winter project. In the summer work is being done with the grounds themselves and in the winter construction work on benches, tables, furniture and bridges will be taken up. The tract containing the park contains about eight acres. Included in the work now under way is the making of a parking space along old Highway 41. Trees are being removed from the space which will be used for this purpose, and trees will be planted to outline the proposed parking limits. A layer of gravel will be placed over the enclosure.

The fireplaces, on which work will begin soon, will be built along the hill near the creek. The stream itself will be widened and cleared of trees.

Park improvements include construction of paths along natural lines. Brush is being trimmed and removed from the paths, with small stone pillars set up to mark the entrance to the various paths. Trees are to be trimmed and dead ones removed. Grass will be planted where necessary in the park's open spaces.

This mighty blow encouraged his mates to such an extent that they pushed over three more in the fifth and held Kappell's to one more to take a 6 to 4 victory.

Bill Alker, on the mound for Kappell's, allowed only four hits, while his mate collected nine off Warren Alker, the winning hurler. The Kappell team, anticipating an easy win, never recovered from the fourth and fifth innings and were easy outs in the final frames.

America's Relief Problem

Relief, Red Ink on Treasury Books, to Stay a Long Time

Congress has just voted another billion dollar bill for unemployment relief. Since it costs most, it is America's most pressing problem of government. This is the second of three bills which the House has passed to run the taxpayers and the unemployed are getting for the money.

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY
Washington (U)—To a destitute family, a relief check may be a manna from heaven—or it may represent a life without hope.

To a politician, the relief check may be a perplexing problem in government—or it may provide visions of votes.

But there is no question that to the treasuries of the United States and its subdivisions, the relief check is a pain in the neck.

For the relief check is more than the public budgets can chew. It is red ink on the public books—red ink that's going to stay on the books for a long time to come.

Cost $4,000 A Minute
In seven years, relief of the unemployed has cost at least thirteen billion dollars. First the cities, counties, and states started spending. Then in 1932 Uncle Sam jumped in. Since then the federal government has far outdistanced the states and cities, pouring out ten billions, while the states have chipped in three and a half billions.

Thirteen and a half billions is a lot of money.

In the kind of money anybody can count, relief is costing nearly $1000 a minute. And the rate of spending is going up.

That $4,000 a minute includes some forms of so-called permanent relief—such as CCC, farm security payments, old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

"On Relief" With Variations
It does not count federal pump priming. Throw that in, and the cost of relief since 1931 approaches the astronomical sum of 20 billions of dollars.

Relief, as such, costs big money because each one of the millions requiring relief cannot be dismissed with a handout of a dollar or two a month. At the minimum, he's got to have enough, or what passes for enough to eat.

Relief people do not receive checks, cash, or groceries and rent in varying amounts, depending on the type of relief they get, the county and state they live in and the standard of living on which a given kind of relief is based.

First, let's look at federal relief pay—the aristocratic pay in relief society. It is wages received for work especially designed so a destitute citizen can feel he has a job, and say he is "working for the government." Just now there are about 2,600,000 of these people in the United States or about half the registered relief cases. These are the ones the WPA has chosen as "employables" that is persons who can do a regular day's work at their trades or professions.

It's Uncle Sam Who Pays
These federal relief workers receive an average of $33 a month. It costs the taxpayers $82 a month to give each one of these workers a job. Here's where the money goes: Wages of WPA workers $33.00 Material and equipment 22.30 Special labor hired locally 17.00 Administrative cost 2.20 Supervision of work 8.00 Total $82.00

The administrative cost is the money it costs to see that everybody gets his check that projects are approved etc., including generally the cost of managing the business. The special labor item is the labor cost of a WPA project assumed by the city or state sponsoring the project.

To show for this the taxpayer has, according to WPA director Harry Hopkins, "a vast increment of wealth and well-being." He lists gains after a page of road work, school buildings, swimming pools, and heater work, such as sewing, tourist guide books, plays by unemployed actors, and the like.

While the federal government has carried out aggressively its vast works program, the cities, counties, and states throughout the country have not spread their dollars so freely. Local governments are the ones that count and sort out the unemployed, and offer the lists to the federal government.

$25 A Month For 'Other Half'
Uncle Sam takes the so-called "employables" and leaves the rest to local "direct relief" or general relief. About 2,000,000 families are receiving this second class relief.

Contributing only three and a half billion dollars for relief in seven years, the local governments have, for the most part, decided to put their money into direct relief, because it will go farther there and the method is easier. What direct relief really amounts to is a dole.

Roughly, states and cities have spread the dole among the destitute, who, for one reason or another, can't get (1) federal WPA jobs, or (2) social security benefits. The average dole case, that is, a family or single person registered as a "relief case," gets an average of $25 a month.

(Tomorrow: Proposed roads to freedom from relief troubles.)

Official Advises Housewives How to Eliminate Roaches

More dangerous and far more common than burglars are the insect intruders that break into homes and many housewives whose kitchens are spottish are annoyed by the recurrent appearance of cockroaches in their kitchens.

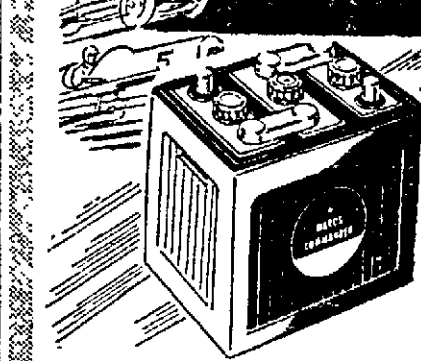

The city yesterday launched a war on roaches in city dumps. Sodium fluoride, a poison in powdered form, was distributed in dumping areas by street department workmen under the direction of Claude N. Gelsch, deputy health officer.

To prevent cockroaches from entering the house the basement drain should be inspected about twice a month and filled with water. The water will guard the chief point of entry. Basement drains are infrequently used and the water seal of the U-trap evaporates. A drain trap is a perfect highway for cockroaches and other vermin, the health officer said.

Government May Impose Tax Upon State Employees

Opinion of Department of Justice Causes Commotion Behind the Scenes

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Something happened the other day at the treasury which, externally, didn't seem very significant, but which must have caused a considerable commotion behind the scenes. It related to the proposal to make state employees pay taxes to the federal government. Of all the subjects calculated to start political trouble, this has in it most potentiality for damage to the fortunes of the Roosevelt administration and the Democratic congress.

What the treasury let out was that a formal opinion had been rendered by the department of justice saying it would be constitutional for the federal government to begin taxing state employees, and, by inference, for the states to begin taxing federal employees. No sooner had this information been disclosed when another spokesman for the treasury department hastened to point out that no such proposals were being planned for passage at the next congress.

Just what caused these reassurances to be given was not explained, but it does look as if the political aspects of the idea of taxing state employees might possibly have been given some consideration, especially by the political managers for members of congress up for reelection this year who are, in various instances, dependent on the help of state political machines.

This business of taxing state employees is far from being a piece of routine. Who are state employees or city and county employees, for that matter? They include not merely persons working at the state houses or county court houses and the city halls, but school teachers as well, to say nothing of the vast army of minor employees in the field for cities, counties and states.

Would be Wage Cut
Taxation by the federal government has never bothered the state, city and county employees before, and they have played ball with the local political machines, which, in turn, have helped the national political tickets. Now, however, if a tax is imposed on state employees' incomes, it will be equivalent to a cut in wages or salaries. It becomes a serious thing for state, county and city employees who have never before paid a federal tax, and, in most instances, have been immune from state taxation as well. Wages for government employees of all kinds are the last as a rule, to be moved upward when costs of living begin to soar. In the inflationary era which has just begun, prices naturally will rise, and, if taxes cut down the incomes of federal, state and city employees, they will face considerable hardship in meeting living costs in a large number of instances.

HEADS FIRM

Albert J. Browning, above, Chicago, was elected president of the United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., by the board of directors at New York last week. Browning, formerly group merchandise manager of Montgomery Ward and Company, assumes his new position Aug. 1. The wall paper firm, country's largest manufacturer of wall paper, was formed in 1927. One of its plants is in Appleton. C. W. Kellogg, Hudson Falls, retiring president, will continue as a director of the company.

Perhaps many of these state, county and city employees who have been an integral part of the Roosevelt political machine will now develop a different idea of the wisdom of the whole spending program which has kept the budget unbalanced for several years and caused deficits to rise by the billions to unprecedented heights. Maybe they will not be as enthusiastic about reelecting to congress the spenders who have been showing no signs of economizing, but who have been exhibiting more and more fervor for spending. Certainly, there seems eventually no way to ward off the tax burden that must be imposed on government employees of all kinds so long as the administration refuses to allow private business the opportunity to earn the large taxes that are needed to take care of these huge budgets which the present administration has introduced.

Somebody Must Pay
The popularity of Mr. Roosevelt is related in no small way to his ability to cause funds to flow all over the country, especially to cities, counties and states which have been granted big subsidies. Somebody is about to be made to pay for all this. The treasury tax experts, being non-political persons, have proposed a plan which will bring in considerable revenue from state, county and city employees. It has been believed hitherto that a constitutional amendment would be needed, and, of course, this meant that the state, county and city political machines, with their vast political influence, would never let such an amendment pass. Thirteen states could block it.

But, under the regime of the new Tories here, constitutional amendments are a thing of the past. They don't feel it necessary to let the people pass on fundamental questions any more. Though the American constitutional system has been transformed in the last five years, not a single proposal to amend the constitution has been allowed to pass either house of congress even though the Democrats have had more than two-thirds in the senate and house.

The technique of the new Tories, of course, is to avoid constitutional amendments. The process is merely to have the department of justice say what is or is not constitutional. With the control which the new Tories hope to have of the supreme court through the appointment of politically minded judges, they manifest little fear about new laws being invalid.

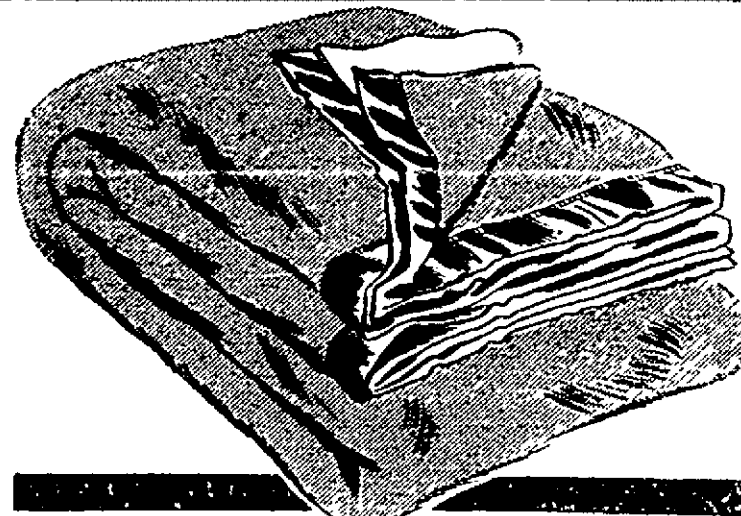

It would seem that a question which has so long been maintained as outside the constitution, namely, separate federal and state taxation, should not now be decided by a mere opinion of a federal bureau.

But the supporters of the Roosevelt administration throughout the country in the state, county and city political machines were primarily responsible for the election to office of the present regime, which believes in circumventing the constitution. So, if the state, county and city employees have to suffer a wage or salary cut, they have only themselves to blame. And maybe the $50,000 federal employees who have been exempt from state taxation will find the states getting busy too with a reciprocal tax.

All in all, more taxes are going to be imposed on everybody, rich and poor alike, but mostly on people of moderate means who pay the largest share of the indirect taxes and who will have to pay a greater and greater share of the direct taxes to support the most extravagant and wasteful administration the nation has ever known.

THE FLUNKING FEDERATION

Senator Polakowski's resignation from the ambitious scheme known as the Farmer-Labor-Progressive Federation helps to clear the muddy waters.

The Milwaukee legislator is frank to the point of pain. He says nothing is left of the Federation excepting the Socialist party. He omits to state that the Socialist party was father, mother and wet nurse to the organization. Why shouldn't it, then, be sexton and funeral director?

Of course the Socialists invited a few farmers and some workers from without their organization to lend both color and camouflage to the plan but Wisconsin saw clear through the idea from the start and tagged the Federation as a mere vehicle, and a rickety one at that, to carry the Socialists around with the notion of increasing their influence and prestige after it had become evident for a generation their growth was as stunted as a double-jointed man.

The persistent malady with which the Socialists are afflicted is comparable to the Mexican army which bears such a high percentage of generals there is sometimes difficulty in finding a squad to do guard duty.

No doubt Senator Polakowski and his voluble friends expected with the Federation as a wedge to take over the Progressives' body and soul. But the Progressives have some generals too, or, should we say, field-marshal?

The Federation's collapse is a great victory for sanity to say nothing of straight-forwardness. When 40,000 votes, the average garnered by the Socialists, can plan a sweet little organization and honey it up with a high-faluting name, and take over a state with nearly a million votes it will be a sign that the people of that commonwealth are flat-chested, broken-arched, cross-eyed and pickled.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE MOVIES

Whether markets rise or fall should be of no consequence in deterring the government from proceeding against the moving picture industry if its allegations of fact may be supported by evidence. Prosperity cannot be built upon illegality, but the extravagant oil trials at Madison have indicated that truth cannot necessarily be thought to exist because of a government charge. Indeed, the oil trials, after 111 days in court, might sustain a charge that the government prosecutors made over half of the accusations without the slightest evidence, judged from the ruling of the trial court.

It is not improbable, however, that the accusations against movie producers are based upon better grounds and certainly less intricate ones. The complaint is made that the producers of pictures have not only established grossly unjust trade practices but have accomplished a virtual monopoly in the showing as well as production end of the industry. The situation at Chicago is cited as a typical example. There Balaban and Katz own about 100 movie houses, but Paramount Pictures owns more than 90 per cent of the stock in Balaban and Katz. Elsewhere the territory appears to be divided without any particular plan excepting to keep the big fellows from stepping on each other's toes to the injury of each other's pocketbooks.

Another principal charge against the industry is that the independent is choked into a state of penury. He is unable to secure anything approaching a fair deal with the showhouse in which the industry is financially interested. The claim is made that the independent cannot obtain the right to obtain pictures on any terms ahead of the fair-haired favorite.

But when the government seeks to prevent block-booking, that is the requirement that a theater take all major pictures whether it likes them or not, it may be departing from a strictly governmental purpose to a mere interference in practices that are at least debatable. If a theater is required to sign up for all the year's output of a producer, it is at least assured the good together with the poor attractions. And since it can hardly be said that any house deliberately produces poor pictures, there will be a sharing of the year's fortunes and misfortunes.

By far the most important question, it seems to us, is whether the picture producer shall be permitted to own or become in anywise interested in the theater. Unquestionably this ownership in the past has been in some respects a public benefaction. It has brought us a great number of splendid theaters comfortably built, serving as ornaments in the city and equally attractive in increasing the assessed valuation of the community. This probably was only possible in the past because of superior advantages of the producers in obtaining the necessary money and then creating designs that were at once safe, useful and ornamental.

A better concept of the stake involved is obtained by mulling over the figures Mr. Hays, motion picture czar, gave forth to indicate the importance of the industry. Said he:

"The industry now employs more than 280,000 persons, keeps 17,500 theaters in more than 9,000 cities and towns in this country in regular operation, produces a billion dollars worth of business in the local communities and pays the federal government about $100,000,000 a year in taxes."

LEADERS ESCAPE AS WORKERS SUFFER

The sit-down never received any enthusiastic welcome in America except among the misinformed and the light-headed.

But the Fansteel case at Chicago illustrates how workers who are misled by irresolute or thoughtless leaders are made to suffer.

When a member of the President's cabinet, the Secretary of Labor to be specific, weakly declared she did not know whether a sit-down was proper and legal or not, or when veteran labor leaders like many of those in control of CIO encourage those looking to them for direction to embrace the sit-down anarchy the fact that numerous men in the ranks took to the practice is hardly surprising.

And now the 91 at the Fansteel find themselves discharged and numerous others elsewhere face much the same ruling based on the continuing right of an employer to sever a worker from his job when the latter is guilty of clear and inexcusable illegality.

While the federal court of appeals is not necessarily the final arbiter this particular one at Chicago is not the only federal court that has reached the same conclusion. And it sustains itself by a logical course of argument that will not be easily overcome anywhere. Pointing out that the striking employees "had a complete and adequate remedy without cost to them" had they but kept their shirts on their backs and their heads on their shoulders the court likewise shows "they would have lost nothing in time or wages" had they seen fit to resist the temptation to merely become impudent and defiant or had they, in other words, been led and advised by leaders not only acquainted with the simplest laws in the land but having enough of that cool judgment which is clever enough to bide its time, and without which leadership is a sham and a farce.

But the densely ivoryed Secretary of Labor who was in doubt whether trespass was lawful maintains her fat job pressing buttons and making speeches, and the CIO leaders keep theirs too although the revenue is getting thinner.

But the 94 Fansteel workers are out in the cold and the 500 others dependent upon them for a living are wondering where it will come from.

Such is the natural result of a policy of folly and a dawdling secretary of Labor.

SALES MAKE JOBS

By the side of controversies that perplex the soul may be put some propositions that are clear and plain and refresh by their very simplicity.

No dispute will ever arise over the declaration that man cannot live without air or that if he is decapitated he will lose the power to solve a problem.

Upon the high sea of industry, business, finance and economics, seemingly as wide as the universe and as bewildering as the complete conception of eternity there are nevertheless, some things as simple as others are confusing.

And the simplest thing is that sales mean jobs, for sales are the oxygen upon which jobs breed and multiply, and when they stagnate our industrial and business life stagnates with them.

We have so many slogans that are useless and so many more that are misleading that it is good to welcome one that is true and reliable.—"Sales Make Jobs," more sales more jobs, and the more jobs, the better jobs.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE WHITE SPARROW

Good luck stars near the house this year!
It came on silver wings,
And loneliness flew out with fear,
And all forbidding things.

For when a rare white sparrow rests
Beside an open door,
It is most welcome of all guests,
For bad luck comes no more!

A bright canary skims the blue,
A brown wren flutters by;
A black-eyed robin shares the view
Of tranquil lake and sky.

But best of all, a sparrow stays
Beside the house; his white
Breast swelling with a song of praise
We share his pure delight!

There is a legend, and I hope
That it comes true for us,
For through ill luck our spirit gropes
To times more glorious.

The sparrow, white and wonderful,
Tradition says, will stay
Beside us when our hearts grow dull,
And send bad luck away!

Dale Harrison's In Old New York

New York—The great Destroyer we call Progress moves relentlessly on like an uncontrolled and pampered prince, devouring greedily more and more of the City's rugged charm.

The meadows are macadamized. The cowpaths grow to be express highways. The surefooted pony passes; the motorcar replaces him. Death finds a thousand new allies.

The peaceful hills are cut away. Replacing them are steel and stone monuments. Progress beats its chest proudly. Progress says: "Look! What I have done is wonderful! I make people happier! I make life easier. I'm a great guy!"

Progress says he is a great guy. I often wonder.

When clippers sailed the seas and when the only motor power was the wind; then the oceans were an invitation to strong men—an invitation and a challenge. Then it was the Walling Wall, down on Whitehill Street by the Bow Office, began building its fame.

There is a saying, as you know, that if you stood in Times Square long enough you would see eventually everybody of importance in the world. By the same token, if you letered by the Walling Wall you most surely would see, or hear about, every man who sails the sea.

At the Walling Wall gather the sailormen—those temporarily out of berths and those whose ships are in port. There was a time, and not more than twenty years ago, either, when ship-owners, agents and skippers walked along the wall seeking men to man their ships.

In the World War days, when freight rates were high and profits huge, employers went to the Walling Wall almost begging men to ship with them. They offered high wages, bonuses and special favors. Almost always the sailormen replied: "We don't like the trade, mister; but bring her up along the wall so we can look her over. We might be interested."

Today the oldtime sailorman would walk miles even at the rumor of a berth. The sea isn't what she were, shipmate.

The old timers talk with the bluntness that goes with sea but with the garrulity that goes with the years. At the Walling Wall we who lived in the city's straitjacket are made conscious of our narrow life, for the sailorman is a world traveler.

He talks of a lot of girls he has known—Ollie, the blond bar-maid at the Wentworth hotel down under in Perth, Australia; of Suzanne in Max's place at Dunkirk; and of the Russian Countess at the Palace Hotel in Shanghai who has been young for the last twenty years.

Their faces light with rollicking memories of the longest bar in the world—the one in the Astor House in Shanghai. Others speak reminiscently of Manila's Santa Anna or of the Australian House in Melbourne.

Wherever men sail, and however long the journey, they are sure to come back to the Walling Wall. They are sure, too, to drop in at the cigar store on Monkey Wrench Corner—Stone and Whitehall streets it is to you and me. The sailormen call it Monkey Wrench corner because a Marine Engineers' Association is housed in a building there.

The cigar store is the confidential postoffice for the world's seamen. Mate Olson, who got a $20 loan from Mate Riley in Shanghai, puts the money in an envelope and leaves it at the cigar store. Eventually, Mate Riley will show up, and the loan is repaid. It may be six months or six years. Time is leisurely to seamen. There are cases in which two trips around the world make up a man's entire life.

Progress is changing all that. The Walling Wall is becoming more and more a mourners' bench for gnarled and hearty old salts who can't get berths any more. They're too old.

Slowly the Walling Wall loses its color and its significance. Progress, personified by the snooty luxury liners, sends its heavy wash pounding in great waves against it. And Progress says: "I'm a great guy and you are a sea-bacon."

The sailormen say nothing. They just chew silently on their catnip tobacco and nod to each other. They have forgotten more real, honest-to-God living than that young whippersnapper will ever know.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Although Mayor A. C. Rule threatened to veto any resolution ordering the city to enter into contract with lower bidders for construction of the E. Wisconsin avenue subway, the city council voted 7 to 3, to go ahead with the project Monday evening at an adjourned meeting.

While reiterating his stand that he was willing to see a subway built at a cost of $25,000, $30,000, Mayor Rule led the opposition to awarding contracts.

Dr. R. V. Landis was first to reach the semifinals of the men's Y.M.C.A. tournament when he defeated A. D. Powers. Ted Xisteris was to play Mark Catlin and Cecil Furringer was paired with William Frank in the quarter-finals.

Two more candidates for county offices filed nomination papers with John E. Hantschel, county clerk. They were Miss Marie Zierenhagen, Republican candidate for reelection as county treasurer, and Barney Hoffman, Democratic candidate for sheriff.

All property in Appleton was to be under the constant surveillance of a member of the fire department in compliance with the state law in an effort to do away with conditions that were liable to lead to fires. Chief George McGillan announced that morning. Captain Michael Spielbauer, head of the truck department, was to make the inspections.

The Kimberly-Clark company was making plans for the installation of a new system of elevators in the Kimberly mills.

Mrs. W. F. Letter and daughters of Cicero had a miraculous escape from death Saturday night when a bolt of lightning entered the room in which they were sleeping. It passed over the cradle in which a little Letter girl was sleeping, slightly burning her foot, and struck the bed on which Mrs. Letter and her baby were asleep. The bed was shattered but both occupants escaped injury.

The cherry crop lasted but a short time in Appleton. The fruit was on the market for canning for only a week when the price soared to $2.50 a crate.

mat announcement: "The Queen: It was officially stated today that the Queen, who is suffering from a slight cold, continues to make satisfactory progress."

Time was when colds and I were well acquainted. Time was when sniffles were my common lot. A simple maid, who danced, but never painted, I was the daughter of a titled Scot. Time was, when nobles of the highest station would comfort me like well-bred gentlemen, but never viewed my colds with trepidation. Ah me, I was a county lassie then.

Have I a headache? Worried ears assemble. Do I look pale? Dukes shed a previous tear. Do I look pale? Then all newspapers tremble, and when I cough, all think the end is near. If I stay home, the countesses hang over me. If I go out, my loving subjects bow, and gallant troops clear crowded streets before me. Ah me, I am the Queen of England now!—Chicago Daily News.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—American importers of German goods have discovered a way to duck Treasury regulations intended to counteract German subsidies.

More-over, the Treasury hasn't yet found a way to block it.

Two years ago Germany was subsidizing its exports to the United States with such care-free abandon that a mile high tariff wall was put up against it. Here is how that business worked:

Germany paid interest on its extensive debts to U. S. investors, half in free currency and half in script redeemed at some indefinite future date. In turn, the German Conversion bank offered to buy up this script at half value. That, together with the 50 per cent paid in cash gave Americans 75 per cent of the cash value of their interest coupons. They were glad to get even 75 per cent, such was the uncertainty.

Next step was for the German government to use this 25 per cent "profit" on the deal to help export finance foreign sales. It was all done under strict regulation and the export bounty was allowed only to exporters of German goods which were having tough competition on world markets.

How It Worked

It was a neat way of making American holders of German bonds pay for a subsidy on German exports to the U. S. For example: An American cotton exporter would ship cotton to Germany. He would be paid in blocked marks. A German exporter would give him dollars for the marks and send him on his way rejoicing. The German exporter then would go to the German Conversion bank and explain that he could buy German cameras or tableware to sell in America if given a subsidy to help him match American prices.

If he had a nice, clean Aryan face and the deal promised to bring much needed foreign exchange to Germany, he would be given the subsidy, so to could buy German goods to ship to the U. S.

It worked so well that in no time American manufacturers began protesting at such competition and the Treasury took steps. The Attorney General upheld a Treasury plan to impose a tariff to offset these subsidies. It ranged from 22 1/2 per cent on tableware to 45 per cent on cameras and 56 per cent on surgical instruments.

Variation on Theme

That paid a damper on the trade which was restricted enough in any event.

But later the Treasury ruled that Americans selling their own goods in Germany could use the proceeds to buy German goods for import into the U. S., for resale here, without having to pay the special tariff. That has developed lately into something interesting.

A person wanting to import goods from Germany simply buys cotton in America, then he owns it "on his own account." Then he ships it to Germany. German buyers are allowed to pay higher than the world price for the cotton to "compensate" the American shipper for the trouble of dealing under German trade restrictions.

This special profit on cotton is limited to 33 1/3 per cent. But while called a profit, it acts the same as a subsidy because the same amount of cotton is converted into the same amount of German goods as when the direct subsidy was paid. The difference is that the goods bought in Germany under this plan don't have to pay special U. S. duties.

And how can the Treasury complain if Germany chooses to pay a premium on American raw materials?

Cradle Ready For Big "Eye"

Pittsburgh — The greatest steel-polishing job ever undertaken, to insure accurate pointing of the 200-inch eye of the world's greatest telescope to be set up on Mt. Palomar, Calif., is finished.

The task was to polish the rim of the huge steel horseshoe, to the axle of which the telescope will be fastened. The horseshoe will swing to focus the 200-inch glass "eye," still being ground at Pasadena.

The arc of the horseshoe rim, by the polishing, was made to conform within 5-1,000ths of an inch to a perfect circle. It was announced by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The polishing was done in a special mill at East Pittsburgh.

The horseshoe is four stories high. It was shipped here in three sections, each fitting a flat car. Its sections bolted together, it was set turning in the polishing mill. It moved past rotating grinding tools for 131 days. More than two tons of the steel surface was ground away.

The sun almost ruined the job. Although the polishing was started under a roof, the heat from the sun warped the steel rim from hour to hour. Even as small a change in temperature as 10 degrees distorted the ends of the horseshoe 13-1,000ths of an inch and the center 7-1,000ths of an inch.

Blue paint was tried on the sky-light of the grinding mill. This was not enough. Work was almost at a standstill for days while engineers made a special umbrella of heat-resisting composition. This cut the heat expansion by 50 per cent.

After the circle was apparently perfect, Dr. Stewart Way, research engineer, went over its surface with a microscope. He found "hills and valleys" a few thousandths of an inch in dimensions. These were marked and polished off as the final step.

The horseshoe weighs 150 tons. It will carry a weight of about 30 tons. Its polished surface will turn on pads carrying oil at pressures

Your Birthday

"LEO"

If July 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 8:45 to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m., from 6:45 to 8:45 p. m., and from 10:45 p. m., until midnight.

The average person may be inclined to be unreasonable in both expectations and demands this day, so try to make your plausible and within reason. Follow generous impulses, for many benefits are likely to come from them in the very near future. Be careful of your physical movements because a shrug of your shoulders, the nod of your head or wave of your hand might be misconstrued. Perilous facial expressions are also liable to be misinterpreted, due to people being very sensitive and ready to take offense on the slightest provocation. You may suffer from an undue amount of needless self-reproach by laboring under a wrong impression. Be sure that you really have a definite reason for worrying, before you indulge in it this day. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are hoping soon to announce their engagement, must give no evidence of being in the slightest degree tight-fisted, if they wish this to be a thoroughly enjoyable day.

If a woman and July 27 is your birthday, you may have a technique that will make you outstanding in some artistic line of work. You are probably of a decidedly poetic and romantic nature. You must avoid being self-indulgent for this is a rather common fault with women born on this date. Manicure is another thing you must guard against, they might affect your popularity. Your sense of humor, combined with a gift for repartee, should help make you a social favorite, and a most successful hostess. You ought to be very clever in formulating plans involving entertaining or business publicity. As an interior decorator, writer, artist, real estate or insurance broker, musician, purchasing agent or actress you may achieve an enviable name and bank account. As a home maker, wife and mother you probably will have more than your share of happiness.

The child born on July 27 is, as a rule, a lover of sports requiring physical prowess. Intensive loyalty is generally an outstanding characteristic of children born on this date. Their mature efforts usually are well rewarded, and their lives are apt to be orderly and harmonious.

If a man and July 27 is your natal day, you may be extremely adverse to any form of criticism, and unless this attitude is changed it might become a handicap in many ways. As a naturalist, engineer, architect, author, artist, actor, lawyer or chemist you may achieve extraordinary results.

For two years or more I have had white patches in my mouth. My doctor said the only cause he knows is smoking, but I have never smoked. Both patches are close to two teeth with fillings. Could amalgam and gold fillings have anything to do with it? (R. M.)

Answer — In many cases such patches (called leukoplakia) have formed close to teeth containing dissimilar metals, from the galvanic battery effect. Removal of the inferior metal and replacing with gold has brought permanent relief in obstinate cases.

Crossed Lake 21,000

Times in Fifty Years

An estimated 21,000 crossings of Lake Michigan were made by Capt. Louis Hanson, of Manitowish, retired ferry skipper. He began sailing with his father, Capt. Anton Hanson, when he was 13, back in 1866. Hanson became an officer of the first ferry operating on Lake Michigan, the Ann Arbor No. 1, in 1903-04, and never once encountered disaster. . . . Another retiring lake veteran is Hugo T. Zahn of Milwaukee, with 30 years of coast guard service behind him. The first thing he'll do, he says, is visit Cairo, Ill., to see the boulevard "that was 45 feet under me during the Ohio river flood two years ago."

On Oct. 28, 1929, when a storm sank the S. S. Wisconsin off Kenosha, Zahn was one of a lifeboat crew which saved 17 persons after a 10-mile battle with the waves.

Janitors Finish Repairs in City Public Schools

Only Clean-Up Work Remains: Crew Busy Fixing Furniture at New School

All of the repair work in Appleton public schools authorized by the board of education for this summer has been completed and janitors now are busy with general clean-up, according to William Eggert, superintendent of janitors.

However, a crew of janitors is still repairing and reconditioning old furniture to be used at the new senior high school and several others are cleaning floors and windows in the new school to prepare it for occupancy this fall.

At Wilson Junior High school a partition was constructed in the equipment room off the gymnasium and the tile roof was repaired. A safety water feed was installed as well as an outside air control for the ventilation system. Other repairs included replacement of broken glass and light switches, reconditioning of desks and chairs.

The heating system at Roosevelt Junior High school was changed so that the heat in several rooms may be more evenly regulated during the winter months. A hand rail was constructed on the steps in the auditorium and the screens in the tower were repaired. The curtains in the auditorium were cleaned and a new door at the rear of the auditorium was installed. The gymnasium floor was repaired in several places and six more bicycle racks were constructed.

Repair Equipment
Many repairs were made at McKinley Junior High school this summer including parts of the roof, patching of ceilings, plastering of walls, repair of playground equipment, sewing tables and of hot water pipes. Boys and girls shower rooms were painted and window shades were reconditioned. The outdoor water bubbler was repaired and a new bicycle rack was constructed.

The walls were washed at Washington school, Jefferson school and McKinley school kindergarten this year. A door was repaired at Washington school and new door checks were installed. Repairs at Edison school included the breeching in the boiler room, locks on doors, window shades, a book shelf, seats and swings on the playground.

Several cupboards were built at Jefferson school and tables, desks, sidewalks, several bulletin boards were repaired. A bicycle rack was built at Columbus school and the kindergarten chairs were reconditioned. A book shelf was installed in the sixth grade.

Kindergarten tables were cut down at Franklin school and more shelving for cupboards was built. The platform for the drinking fountain was fixed and a book shelf for the fifth grade was made. A cupboard for the kindergarten at Richmond school was built and the walls were washed.

First Aid Stations Total 3,406 in Nation

Red Cross highway emergency first aid stations in the United States now number 3,406, according to Harold P. Entows, director of first aid and life saving for the Red Cross.

In Outagamie county there are four, one of which is temporarily out of operation. They are situated at Freedom, Leppia's Corners, Greenville and at the Outagamie county garage.

The fixed stations in the nation numbering 2,070 have been established in every state in the union and are manned by trained personnel. There also are 1,336 mobile first aid units whose trained crews stand ready to help injured persons on the highways.

Firemen Will Attend Annual State Conclave

Nick Reider and Louis Hintz are the delegates of the Appleton fire department to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Paid Fire Fighters association at Eau Claire on Aug. 2, 3 and 4. Hintz and William Hillman are the department delegates to the annual state convention of the International Association of Fire Fighters which will be held at the same city on Aug. 1.

Forest lands in this country now total 615,000,000 acres, almost one third the continental United States. Of these, nearly 30 per cent are publicly owned.

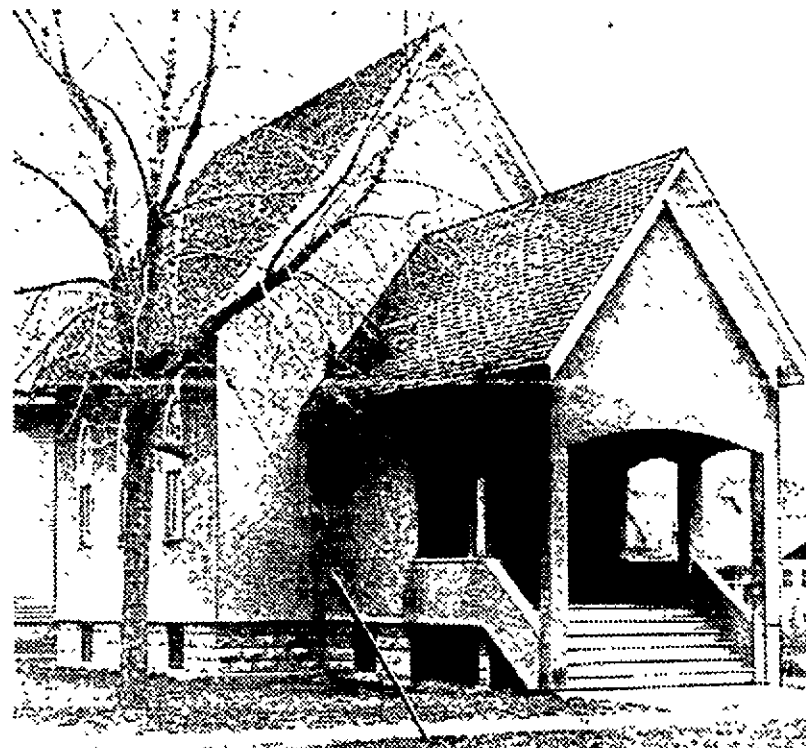

Seventh Day Adventist Congregation, Formed in 1889, Has Membership of 29

Editor's Note: This is the twentieth of a series of stories on Appleton churches from the time of their organization to the present.

BY VIOLA HELLERMANN
The Seventh Day Adventist church, now located on the corner of N. Richmond and W. Winnebago streets, was organized by Elder J. B. Scott on May 26, 1889. Services were held at first in the former Langstadt-Meyer building and then in a chapel in the Fourth ward. The present church building was bought in January, 1914.

Charter members of the congregation were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westphal, Lenna Nicholson, Jesse and Mrs. Adell Hurd, Mrs. Mary and Burt Dimmick, Hugh Miller, Robert and Mrs. F. Zuehlke, Mrs. M. McKenzie, Clara, Lillie and Ida Johns, Alice Brandhall and Herman Becker. Today the church has 29 members.

Elder R. F. Pitz, Green Bay, is acting minister and comes here about once a month to conduct services. At other times Harley Cole, Appleton, acts as leader of the congregation. Miss Helen M. H. is secretary-treasurer and Edward Droeger is deacon.

Pegler Slaps Hypocrisy About Drinking in Army

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—Walter S. Giffin, a lieutenant colonel in the army, has been on trial before a military court on a charge of drunkenness and unbecoming conduct. The unbecoming conduct suggested by the testimony does not constitute moral turpitude. At worst he is guilty of the rather foolish behavior of a man with a skinful. The penalty could be dismissal.

Regardless of the merits of this case, the army should make it the occasion for revising its code in the direction of honesty and decency by abolishing the regulation which makes an officer a prey to any snitch who considers it his duty to run and tattletale when he sees an officer a little too deep in his drams. I have known many good officers and cannot recall that there was a single leetotaler among them.

In fact, I cannot recall off hand any officer of my acquaintance who did not get a little bit high now and again on his own time, and they include all ranks from major general down to second lieutenant. Moreover, if this regulation had been similarly enforced against every officer who overdrank himself during the World war the good of the service would have been served by the total demoralization of the service and the loss of the victory.

If an officer is a drunkard that is quite another matter and the facts of the case are better determined by a medical board than by a court. But the mere fact of his being drunk once or on several isolated occasions in the life of a robust man to whom fighting is an occupation should not be made the occasion for a solemn trial. The penalty, barring grievous misconduct dangerous to others, should be no worse than a hangover.

I am discussing, of course, drunkenness on the officer's own time, for it is not to be agreed that it is not in the best interests of morale and discipline that a commissioned officer fall on his face before his troops while on duty in uniform. But even in such case dismissal from the service should not be mandatory because some very good officers do get drunk and their loss to the service for that cause would be a sacrifice for a false standard. After all, the enlisted men know the facts of life.

Not One Known Case in Hundred Comes to Trial

Everybody in the army knows that many — I was going to say most — officers get drunk occasionally. They rely on their fellow officers and the wives of the officers set to keep still about it, and therein you have dishonesty, and a violation of the code of honor, because, strictly speaking, every officer who sees another one even slightly excited from liquor is supposed to tattletale, and every patriotic woman of the set is theoretically bound to squeal for the good of the service. The result is a great compromise with honor and duty and a great hypocrisy.

Naturally, a commanding officer, like any other executive, should police the conduct of his subordinates and should have power to inflict some sort of glorified R. P. on an officer who gets drunk too conspicuously or too often. But this could be done without courts and charges sufficient to break a man's career and deprive the army of the worth that is in him after the government has carried him through West Point and trained him up to the rank which he occupies at the time.

throws himself to the ground and hangs on.
Colonel Giffin is a veteran officer who would be eligible for retirement on pension next March, and his dismissal now without his pension for conduct which is an every day occurrence in the army would be a cheap evasion of an obligation which is about to mature.

Council Lists Rules Of Safe Bike Riders

Good bicycle riders don't take chances, the National Safety council states in a bulletin to F. R. Appleton, chairman of the Outagamie County Street and Highway Safety council. The bulletin states that more than 35,000 persons were badly hurt and several hundred killed in bicycle traffic accidents last year.

Following are some rules followed by the safe bicycle rider: he obeys all traffic signals, he never turns without warning or without looking to see that everything is clear, and he slows down at intersections.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

I know a mother who "allows" her two young daughters to follow her own simple grooming routine. The youngsters even the reward in various ways, of doing as mother does to make themselves beautiful.

In the morning they rise and shower their bodies just before or just after morning showers. They then proceed to brush their teeth, use dental floss, rinse their mouths with lotion, and return to their room to brush their hair and care for their fingernails.

Each child owns her own grooming implements. Comb and brush, tooth brush, dental floss and paste, mouth lotion. Besides these essentials to health, mother has given each to a miniature set of make-up cosmetics which are definitely harmless, but a strong incentive for the use of them. To thoroughly complete their grooming. For mother must "O. K." their appearance before they are allowed to powder their tiny noses with baby talcum powder and rouge their lips with scented camphor ice! In all their glory they hustle down to Daddy and breakfast!

Inspires Children

If a child possesses his own aids to body health and cleanliness, he is more likely to use them. "My very own hair brush"—"My very own tooth paste"—makes him proud. If he is taught how to use them and why he must use them, a mother will have little difficulty in getting home to do.

Of course all children go through that obstinate age when every suggestion is vetoed, when every request calls forth a lengthy argument. But even during this stage of growing pains the child is quite likely to slip off and do what he has been told to do after he has satisfied his ego by displaying his obstinance, that is providing his earlier years have included a daily grooming routine.

Should Not Be Complex

Mothers should not make the mistake of trying to teach a child a too complicated routine for health and cleanliness. Simple rules such as, "Always wash your face and hands and comb your hair before going to the table for a meal," should be sufficient. A few more good ones are these:

Scrub teeth at least once a day—night and morning if he will.

Use plenty of pure soap while bathing—and scrub.

Carry a fresh handkerchief or know where to get tissues.

Never put fresh hose or underclothes on a body which needs washing.

Do not bite fingernails, and keep them clean with an orange stick or the tip of a file.

The regularity of the routine is the important thing. Get him in to the habit of grooming himself every day at about the same hours.

Squeeze Play Is Explained

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: In my bridge experience grand coups have been the rarest of the so-called expert plays to come to the recognition, but the oft-seen squeeze has given me the greatest thrills. An unusual one came my way recently. If there are varieties in squeezes I am sure this is a comparatively rare one. I shall ask you to be the judge and give it its special name, if there be such a thing for that particular play.

"West, dealer.
"Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 2 diam. Pass 2 spades
3 hearts Pass Pass 4 diamonds
Pass 5 diam. Pass 6 no trump
Pass Pass

"After West's pass, North's opening semi-psychic was destined to bluff East-West out of a possible major suit game. At the same time (determined to drop anything short of a forcing bid from South), North felt the damage could not be great if he were forced to play the hand. North's pass after West's three heart bid warned me (South) of the possible danger. But when North carried my four diamond bid to game I was assured that the opening bid was not an absolute psychic and, fearing a heart lead through my king, I put the contract into no trump.

"West was not exactly a conservative player, but I read his nine of spades lead as a 'top-of-nothing' and credited him with the ace of hearts and the queen and jack of clubs. In other words, I foresaw the squeeze at the first turn of a card. The two top spades were immediately mixed. Place over the last three of which I threw my remaining spades and a small club. West guarded his two clubs and left this situation:

NORTH		EAST
♠ None	♥ 9	♠ None	♥ K 6
♦ None	♣ A 10 8	♦ None	♣ 5 2
WEST		SOUTH
♠ None	♥ A	♠ None	♥ K 9
♦ None	♣ J 7	♦ None	♣ 5 2

"On my heart nine East thoughtfully put up his queen, but I ducked and (as expected) the ace fell. As long as my placing of the heart ace and club queen and jack was correct, the squeeze was inevitable from the outset, but wasn't it pretty?"

"Yours truly, D. B. Jr., Tampa, Fla."

At the very outset declarer could count only eleven top tricks, seven diamonds, two clubs and two spades. There was no chance to augment these by a spade or a heart trick, inasmuch as the heart ace was marked in the West hand. Hence declarer's one hope was a squeeze. He was, of course, lucky to find the only club stopper in West's hand but still had to be careful to cash his tricks in the proper order, and to discard properly. On the second spade trick it would have been fatal to discard dummy's nine of hearts instead of the club.

As a matter of fact, the one thing that a would-be squeeze must guard against, above all others, is squeezing himself or dummy. This is not only fatal but, perhaps worse, highly humiliating!

Superlative Cakes

BY MISS MARIE SCHNEIDER

The ideal Angel Food is one of the easiest cakes to make, once you know how to do it. I know many of you hesitate when it comes to making an Angel Food but all you have to do is follow directions carefully. Once this is done, there are numerous ways of varying the baking and serving to make delicious dessert cakes for any occasion. Try the following recipes and you will not be disappointed.

ALMOND CREAM ANGEL FOOD

1 1/2 c egg whites
1 1/2 c sugar
1 1/2 c cake flour
1 1/2 c cream of tartar
1 1/2 c vanilla
1 1/2 c salt

Beat egg whites with flat whip. Add cream of tartar and salt when whites are frothy. Continue beating until a point of the egg whites will stand upright when whip is pulled out. Gradually beat in 1 cup of the sugar. Fold in flour which has been sifted three times with the remaining 1 cup sugar. Pour into dry ungreased pan and bake 1 hour in a slow moderate oven (325 degrees F.). Use a 10-inch tube center pan. Invert pan until cake is entirely cold. Split Angel Food to make 2 layers. Place Almond Cream Filling between the layers, and cover with White Icing.

ALMOND CREAM FILLING

1 1/2 c sugar
1 1/2 c egg whites
1 1/2 c cake flour
1 1/2 c cream of tartar
1 1/2 c vanilla
1 1/2 c salt

Mix the sugar, cornstarch and salt together. Add the milk and cook for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in the egg whites which have been slightly beaten, and cook on double boiler until thick and creamy. Add vanilla. Add the chopped almonds and cool before spreading between the layers of cake.

WHITE ICING

2 egg whites
1 1/2 c sugar
1 1/2 c cake flour
1 1/2 c cream of tartar
1 1/2 c vanilla
1 1/2 c salt

Beat egg whites with flat whip. Add cream of tartar and salt when whites are frothy. Continue beating until egg whites hold a point when whip is pulled out. Gently beat and fold in cocoa mix.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL FOOD

1 1/2 c sugar
1 1/2 c egg whites
1 1/2 c cake flour
1 1/2 c cream of tartar
1 1/2 c vanilla
1 1/2 c salt

Sift sugar twice and sift cocoa with 1 cup of the sugar. Sift flour 3 times with remaining 1 cup sugar. Beat egg whites with a flat whip. Add cream of tartar and salt when whites are frothy. Continue beating until egg whites hold a point when whip is pulled out. Gently beat and fold in cocoa mix.

My Neighbor Says—

Flowers should never be cut in the middle of the day or in bright sunlight, but always in the early morning or late evenings.

A drop or two of almond with the required teaspoon of vanilla gives more character to the taste of rather flat-tasting puddings, cakes and desserts.

When decorating a birthday cake for an aged person, arrange candles to form her age, thus for 75 make a seven and a five with the candles. This saves space on the cake.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: I have an older friend whose manners seem to be flawless, and who has traveled far and wide. I have noticed when we dine together that he holds his knife to cut his food in the same way that a pencil is held. Is not this a curious way of eating? And also in this position he pushes food on to his fork.

TABLE MANNERS

Dear Mrs. Post: I have an older friend whose manners seem to be flawless, and who has traveled far and wide. I have noticed when we dine together that he holds his knife to cut his food in the same way that a pencil is held. Is not this a curious way of eating? And also in this position he pushes food on to his fork.

Answer: This is a curious way of eating, but it can not be called a tabu because it is not a vulgarity which is the usual source of tabus. I have seen a number of very distinguished foreigners hold their knives in the way that you describe, and it is also not uncommon among surgeons. Even so, the usual way of holding a knife with the forefinger down the back of the blade is unquestionably best form.

The Way To Eat Soup

Dear Mrs. Post: Should soup be eaten from the side of the spoon or from the end? We are a divided family on this soup question.

Answer: When the soup is liquid it should be eaten from the side of the spoon always. A partly solid soup, such as an oyster stew or clam chowder is eaten from the end when the portion in the spoon is solid, and from the side of the spoon when it is filled with liquid. The rule of course in eating a solid from the tip of the spoon is not to fill the bowl more than half full, unless it is a teaspoon—even then not bulging full. Creamed soup, even though thick, is rated as a liquid.

Carving the Roast at the Table

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a silver carving set to match my sterling pattern, which was given to me as a wedding present. Instructions were enclosed, however, that it could be exchanged for something else if I wished. I was overjoyed at getting it, until another friend came in and told me that if she were in my place she'd exchange it since such a handsome carving set is unnecessary because carving is never done at the dining table. I have always been under the impression that the carving at the dining table by the host was as traditional as America is itself. Will you write about this before I make any mistake.

Answer: Whether the carving set will be useful or not depends on how you live, and whether your husband likes to carve. If he does, then there is no reason in the world why he should not follow this time-honored custom, but if he doesn't and you have an efficient cook in your kitchen to do the carving, then it may be that you would never use this knife and fork. On the other hand, if you have no servants, then you would of course have to do the carving at the table. Even in great

Use Forceful Methods to Cure Wife of Indolence

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—I want to ask you a very simple question. What can I do with a wife who is lazy and generally no-account, and who absolutely refuses to take care of her house or her children? I have been married for six years and we have two children. Married life for us has been a continuous warfare. I have to get my own breakfast in the morning while my wife sleeps. Every meal is an hour or more late. As a result I am losing my trade and perhaps my job. When we go to the theater the play is nearly over when we get there. If we are invited out, we are always so late that our friends are dropping us. I neglect my business in trying to take care of the children. My wife does not put them to bed until nearly midnight and when I interfere she goes into tantrums. Nothing that I do pleases her. I am so miserable I would not live with her another day except for the children. What should I do?
G. F. E.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: If you consider that the problem of how to deal with a trifling wife is a simple question, please don't ask me a hard one. To my mind it is the most unguessable riddle in the world and I frankly admit that I do not know the answer to it.

It is a problem so great that even the law has not undertaken to solve it. We have edicts for dealing with the husband who fails to do his duty in the domestic relationship, but none for the wife who is a wash-out. A wife can get a divorce from a lazy, good-for-nothing husband who will not support her, but a man can't get a divorce from a wife who is too lazy and good-for-nothing to cook the food he provides and make him a comfortable home.

Why men put up with wives who simply lay down on their jobs and become parasites who suck the very lifeblood out of them is a mystery I have never been able to understand. Nor have I ever been able to understand why men do not get together and have a law passed that would make noncooking as good a reason for divorce as is nonsupport.

So, after all, when I hear of a man who has to get his own breakfast and wash the baby's dishes and wait for his dinner until his wife gets home from the movies with the delectable mess she has bought on the way home, my sympathy is tinged with a contempt one can't help having for a doormat.

It is human nature, especially if it is human nature to tramp over any one who hasn't backbone enough to stand up for his rights and who will meekly take any kind of treatment that is accorded him.

The only remedy for the indolent wife is force. She knew that she was going to lose her job if she didn't keep her house clean, take care of her children and give her husband food, believe me, she would get busy with the vacuum cleaner, the baby book and the cook-stove, for like as she likes domestic work she knows it is far easier and less exacting than pandering a typewriter or standing behind a counter. She knows she couldn't get by with loafing in an office that she can do at home.

I doubt, however, if any treatment ever cures a lazy person or makes a dilatory one prompt. Maybe they have the hookworm. Maybe they have just an abnormal supply of selfishness and lack of consideration for other people. Anyway, I have never seen either a man or a woman who was born with a constitutional aversion to any form of labor galvanized into action. Nor have I ever seen a dilly-dahler speed up.

So I fear your chances of change.

The Life of John Muir

II—A FARM BOY'S STUDIES

Happy was the day when the rest of the Muir family reached Wisconsin. John had enjoyed helping clear the farm, but he was glad to have his mother with him once more, also his little brother, Daniel, and the three sisters who had stayed in Scotland for a time.

labor in the fields, also something else. Mr. Muir seems to believe that the only worthwhile book was the Bible, and he would not let John stay up in the evening to read books of other kinds. "You must go to bed when the rest of us do," he said, but he added a few words which were like music to his son's ears. "If you must read, you can get up early in the morning."

There it was, thought John, the great opportunity of his life. At one o'clock next morning, he rose from his bed. Through months which followed, he kept rising early, only an hour or two after midnight.

Thanks to the extra time, John was able to read dozens of books, including the novels of Scott and the plays of Shakespeare. He also worked on inventions.

With clever hands aided by a clever brain, young Muir carved the parts of a clock from pieces of wood. The clock was put together, and kept time. Later he made another and better clock. The youth also made water-cocks to use for a sawmill, a lamp-lighter, a barometer to tell in advance that a storm was coming, and a thermometer.

"You ought to take your clocks and other inventions to the fair at Madison," a neighbor said to him one day and this idea took hold of the young man's mind. He had reached the age of 22 and was eager to go into the big world.

Bidding farewell to his family, he went to the nearest railway station. He boarded a train but didn't ride in a coach. Instead, he was allowed to get in the locomotive and stand beside the engineer. The engineer even let him go to the front of the locomotive and sit on the cowcatcher while the train sped forward at the rate of about 15 miles an hour.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

There is much merit in a tool called the scuffle hoe, which consists of a flat blade attached to a long handle in such a manner that it can be worked back and forth just under the surface of the soil. A scuffle hoe is particularly recommended to amateurs who do not include a wheel hoe in their garden equipment. By means of this hoe weeds and grass growing in the rows between vegetable crops can be killed quickly and easily without danger of injuring the roots of the crops. It is possible to get very close to the rows with such a hoe, thus obviating much hand work. Even with a scuffle hoe, however, a certain amount of hand weeding must be done. A mason's trowel is also a first-class tool to use when weeding among young plants as well as for transplanting operations. A tool of this kind is particularly useful in the flower garden.

GRATEFUL FOR HOT WEATHER

Fort Wayne, Ind.—Judge Harry H. Hilgemann told John Head-

houses where they have men servants this is sometimes done at the table by the host. But in the majority of houses of importance all carving is done in the kitchen. The latter is formal, and the former is informal. One is as correct as the other under ordinary every-day circumstances.

Ickes Hints at Third Term Race in Address

Washington (P)—Capital politicians wondered today if Secretary Ickes were hinting at a third term race for President Roosevelt when he said:

"If the reactionaries in the Democratic party want a real test of President Roosevelt's strength with the people, I suggest that they continue to work for a situation that will result in the people being given an opportunity to vote directly on the proposition of whether or not they are for President Roosevelt and his policies."

"There can hardly be any doubt what the answer of the people would be."

Ickes made those statements last night in a talk on current events substituting for a radio news commentator. He did not mention the 1940 presidential contest directly.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) said in an interview that he believed the president does not desire a third term.

Pepper, a Roosevelt supporter, expressed the opinion the "salvation" of the Democratic party lies in a coalition of liberals of the west and south to carry out the president's policies.

Rajah to be Grandfather In December, Baba Says

Hollywood (P)—Far away in London the white rajah of Sarawak has turned a very cold shoulder on his youngest daughter, blonde Princess Baba. He said she was not a princess but a plain wrestler's wife.

But Baba—Mrs. Bob Gregory—wondered aloud today if rajah's feelings might change were he to know he is to become a grandfather in December.

"Yes, we're going to be a three-some, Bob and I," she said "though I suppose it wouldn't make any difference to my family. I wasn't one to stay at home until a marriage with some moth-eaten duke was arranged."

Castle Hall Fast Recovering From Damages in Fire

Structure Being Partially Re-Built, Completely Re-Decorated

Castle hall, badly damaged by a fire that roused Lawrence street residents early on the morning of Dec. 10, is rapidly recuperating from the effects of flame and water. The Knights of Pythias lodge has already held a meeting there.

Workers have nearly finished partial re-building and complete interior re-decoration of the structure which was burned and water-soaked. The hall will be ready for the lodge when regular meetings are resumed in September, officers said today.

Portions of the walls damaged by flames have been re-built and the roof lowered, with a new half-barrel ceiling installed. The main hall, besides having a new hardwood floor and wall finishings, now has an attractive, spacious stage in place of the organ, which has been removed.

Dressing rooms for men and women flank the stage of the main hall and new opera chairs have been purchased for both the hall and the balcony. New block flooring has been laid in the front lounge room.

Hamilton Says War Would Bring America Under Dictatorship

Salem, Ill. (P)—Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican national committee asserted today that another war would bring the United States "under as rigid a dictatorship as the world has ever seen."

"It would be very doubtful," he says in an address prepared for the 55th annual Marion county soldiers and sailors' reunion, "if we would be able to get rid of such a regime after the conflict is over."

Hamilton urged that Americans "not be diverted from the pressing problems at home," adding that this country "has no duty to police the world." He continued:

"If there is one question on which the people of this country are more nearly united than on any other, it is on the proposition that America does not wish to have any part in the wars of Europe or Asia—or does it wish any part in the wars of fascism, communism, or any other alien 'ism.'"

Housewives are Warned to Cook Pork Thoroughly

Trichinosis, a Pork Infection, May Result From Improperly Cooked Meat

Dr. John C. Troxel, city physician, today warned housewives to thoroughly cook all pork, including pork sausage and summer sausage to prevent recurrence of the trichinosis epidemic of two summers ago.

Several cases of the disease, which is contracted from eating raw or improperly cooked pork, have been reported in Green Bay and a warning to thoroughly cook pork was issued yesterday by the district health officer of the state board of health. No cases have been reported in Appleton.

Dr. Troxel particularly cautioned housewives to cook summer sausage or any other sausage in which pork is incorporated. Symptoms of the disease are nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. Later muscular pains develop, especially in the arms and legs and the muscles of mastication, speech and respiration also may be involved. A swelling of the face may occur and the disease usually is accompanied by a fever.

In some cases, symptoms may be mild, running a course of from 10 to 12 days while in other cases the victim may show symptoms for six or eight weeks and death may result.

"The ice water guard will have charge of the pitcher from the time it leaves the tap until the senator or his friends on the platform have emptied it. The food inspectors may have to taste the food before he gets his meals and no one will be permitted to hand around promiscuously food or drinking during the mass meeting."

"Water left in the pitcher after the speaking will be impounded for five days and if the senator is stricken ill within that time, it will be analyzed. If not, it will be thrown out."

Hundreds Claim Paris Treasure Jubilation of Discoverers Is Dampened by Secret Will

Paris (P)—The workmen who came across over $70,000 in gold coin while excavating the foundations of the municipally owned former Hotel Nivelle in the Rue Mouffetard, Paris, the other day, at once began to celebrate in a neighboring brasserie. There were only ten of them, and according to the Treasure-trove law one-third would go to the municipality, as such, another third to the same body as the owner of the site, and the remaining third, or over $23,000, be divided among the convivial ten.

The mansion had been built in the early part of the eighteenth century and occupied by Louis Nivelle, equerry, counselor, and secretary to Louis XV. It is supposed that on the outbreak of the revolution he turned most of his fortune into specie and secreted it, but that the guillotine prevented him from realizing on it.

The jubilation of the discoverers, however, was short lived. An expert examination of the secret vault which had contained the casket of gold revealed another box in which were family papers. Among them was Louis Nivelle's last testament properly drawn, signed and witnessed and dated June, 1793, a fortnight before he was removed to the "Conciergerie."

This was taken possession of by the proper authorities and a search was instituted for the heirs. By dint of a meticulous examination among the available archives, no fewer than 300 living descendants have been located—and the end is not yet.

Among the 300, who it would appear, have all equal claims to the treasure, is Yves Brant de Boisanger, deputy governor of the Bank of France. It is possible that yet more descendants will be found in England, where a branch of the family is believed to have settled around 1770.

Man on Ledge Turns Deaf Ear to Pleas To Re-Enter Hotel

New York (P)—A slender young man who climbed out on a precarious perch on a seventeenth floor ledge of the Hotel Gotham, shortly after noon, was still there at 2 p. m. CST. today. He continued to ignore all pleas to return inside.

Shortly after noon a fireman leaning out of an eighteenth floor window pleaded with the man, who shouted back at him:

"I wanted to be left alone. I'll figure this thing out for myself. Get the hell out of here." During a 15-minute interval, the man smoked almost an entire package of cigarettes, nervously lighting one after the other. Frequently he would rest his chin in one cupped hand and look below.

Hotel officials identified the man as John Ward. They said he arrived this morning to visit his sister, Mrs. Patricia Valentine, who occupies a room on the seventeenth floor. The first hint anyone had of the trouble was when Mrs. Valentine screamed.

Firemen in rooms above and on each side kept up a rapid-fire conversation with him. They were unable to reach him because of projections outside the windows. The closest window was five feet away.

Chicago (P)—Chauffeur Bert Saggerman intentionally violated two traffic rules and won the praise of policemen.

Saggerman drove through a red light and then made a left turn directly in front of Policeman Michael Mulvihill.

The policeman found Eugene Nolan, 41, in the machine. Saggerman told Mulvihill that Nolan stepped into the car, took 80 cents from him and ordered him to drive north.

States which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof, shall have been increased during such time."

Two Alabama attorneys — one a "personal friend" of Black — attempted unsuccessfully today to obtain withdrawal of the resolution.

"I am a personal friend of Hugo L. Black and I want to take the floor against this," said Judge Richard D. Evans of Birmingham, Ala. He said the supreme court had once refused to rule on Black's eligibility and there was no reason for the association to press the matter.

Marvin Woodall, also from Birmingham, then said the proposed resolution was "highly impertinent" and said "the status of Black is a matter for the court to decide, not the American Bar association."

Lee, refusing to withdraw the proposal, said "I think the bar association owes it to the people to have this question cleared up." A committee will decide whether the measure should be reported to the convention floor for a vote.

Denies Wisconsin Cheese Marketing Body Fixes Prices

Ammon Says Committee Would Act Only if Emergency Appeared

Madison—(P)—Ralph E. Ammon, acting director of the department of agriculture and markets, asserted today the Wisconsin Cheese Marketing committee, was not a price-fixing body created to supplant the Wisconsin Exchange at Plymouth unless an emergency appeared.

Ammon's statement was made in reply to charges made by Charles E. Broughton, editor of the Sheboygan Press yesterday.

Broughton said the department "had seen fit to throw out all suggestions made at a hearing recently and substitute a price-fixing committee, a body which that board has entertained for years."

Ammon replied that the committee, not yet appointed, was provided for in a resolution to be "ready for an emergency," in the event the exchange at Plymouth ceased to function for one cause or another.

Revision Needed

There have been reports that a federal inquiry into Chicago milk companies may be extended to include the Plymouth exchange. Ammon said a federal trade commission representative had informed him the commission would insist that the exchange revise some of its practices.

Ammon said that a three-man committee representing the exchange, George L. Mooney, executive secretary of the National Cheese Institute, William Hubert, president of the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange, and Frank Cornia, member of the exchange and a representative of the Hoffman Cheese company, Plymouth, had "full knowledge" of the department's plan to set up a committee of seven.

Broughton charged the department had withheld information from the three-man exchange committee that the department had paved the way for the formation of the seven-man body. State officials declined to say whether they anticipated an interruption in the exchange's duties.

Broughton's Charge

Ammon said he even had asked the official to suggest the names of nine cheese dealers from whom three could be selected to act on the board. The three officials met with Ammon to discuss plans for revising and improving the practices of the exchange.

Broughton branded the plan as a "movement that eliminates every independent dealer and substitutes in its place absolute control by Kraft-Phenix, the processors and packers," adding that the "department of agriculture and markets had acquiesced in a plan which puts every corner cheese factory, every producer of milk which goes into cheese at the mercy of a price-fixing committee that is dictated to and controlled by the big interests."

Broughton claimed a plan which would have strengthened the exchange was dropped upon a suggestion of a Kraft-Phenix official. Ammon said this plan was still under consideration.

This action was declared in the resolution "to be construed as based not on opposition to Mr. Martin but in the interests of permitting Mrs. Givan to run."

Strain of Being Initiated Too Much for Secretary So Roosevelt Becomes Reporter

San Francisco—(P)—President Roosevelt turned reporter and wrote for the nation's newspaper readers, but to the United States naval radio it was just "routine."

No reporters are accompanying the president on his cruise in the Pacific ocean aboard the cruiser Houston. His secretary, Stephen Early, has been writing the stories for America's press. They are transmitted by naval radio to San Francisco where they are handed out twice a day to newspaper representatives.

But the strain of being initiated into a "shellback," showing he had crossed the equator, proved too much for Early yesterday, and President Roosevelt wrote the story.

The naval radio's press "hand-out" last night was labeled "From President U. S. and party Routine."

Here it is, just as the president wrote it:

"The cruiser Houston late today anchored for an overnight stay off the west coast of Albemarle Island, largest member of the Galapagos group. It was a 100 per cent shellback ship."

"King Neptune with Dave Jones and his royal court boarded early in the morning while the Houston was on its way from San Salvador Island to Albemarle. President Roosevelt and the shellback members of his party spent the forenoon on the communication platform looking down upon the quarter deck where King Neptune presided over the initiation of pollywogs, more than 300 of whom were given 'the royal wogs.'"

"The former pollywog members of the president's party have all survived, but while they are recuperating, this dispatch is being sent not by Mr. Early but by the senior shellback himself."

President Fishing

As soon as the ship's anchor dropped, the president was off in a small boat to survey the island's shores and to fish. Fish were plentiful—so numerous that he soon lay aside his heavy rod and returned to the shallow waters close ashore in quest of little fish. These ran in unusually large schools and were of many kinds. He used a light rod usually reserved for trout fishing.

The weather was clear with few scattered low clouds in the late evening and early morning. Visibility 20 miles. Surface winds southerly, 14 to 18 miles—sea choppy on the windward side of islands and smooth on the other. Temperatures ranged from 61 to 74 degrees.

Girl of Six Wins Way Into Motion Pictures by Dancing on Ice Skates

Hollywood —(U)— Her glass slippers are a pair of ice skates. Her prince charming is a tough-skinned movie producer. . . and Irene Dare is another Cinderella. . . at the age of 6.

She didn't know her luck today as she light-heartedly practiced ballet on a frozen rink. But in a hot studio projection room a jury of "no men" returned a verdict momentous for her career.

The "no men" are a unique institution at Principal Productions, Inc., where shrewd Sol Lesser is the big boss. They are his way of learning in advance what the public likes.

He had a new picture to edit, so he called them in haphazardly—two stenographers, an office boy, a janitor, a telephone girl, a gardener. "You are fans," he explained. "What you say goes."

As they bustled into their seats, the lights went off and a movie unfolded. It was called "Breaking the Ice" and presumably it starred Bobby Breen, the boy soprano. But there was Irene on her silver skates. For nearly 10 minutes—across a reckoned by movie time—she danced.

When the scene ended, Lesser asked two questions. "Isn't it too long?" Doesn't it hold up the story?" The jurors, to a man, said: "No." When Irene was 3, her mother, Mrs. Viola Davidson, wife of Harry Davidson, St. Paul newspaper engraver, looked in a theatrical directory to pick out a career for her daughter.

Apparently there was only one field not overcrowded—ice skating.

mining tests by first-year campers, Bailey said today. Every boy attending camp for the first time—regardless of his swimming ability—is required to take the tests.

Project periods will open Friday and on Monday the first trip will be held.

St. Joseph Pastor Will Return From Europe This Week

Informal Reception for Fr. Cyprian Will be Held Friday Evening

St. Joseph's parish this week is preparing to welcome back its pastor, the Rev. Cyprian Abler, O. M. Cap., from a three months' trip abroad. Father Cyprian will return Friday evening from Europe where he attended the international Eucharistic Congress in Budapest in May and the general chapter meeting of the Franciscan order in Rome June 6 and 7. He also visited Capuchin houses in Genoa, Milan, Venice, Assisi and Padua, also in Switzerland.

Father Cyprian will be met at the depot Friday night by members of the parish council who will escort him to St. Joseph's hall for an informal reception for members of the congregation.

The Rev. Alfred Upplegger, missionary among the Apache Indians in Arizona, gave an illustrated lecture on his work last night at Mt. Olive Lutheran church. He has been giving similar talks throughout this section of the state within the last few weeks. Mt. Olive congregation celebrated its seventeenth anniversary Sunday with services at the church followed by a picnic and program at Pierce park.

Two pastors who have been on vacation for the last few weeks, namely, Dr. Harry C. Culver of First Methodist church, and the Rev. F. C. Reuter of First English Lutheran church, returned to their own pulpits Sunday. Dr. Culver spoke on "What is Spirituality?" and the Rev. M. Reuter preached on "The New Life." The Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church, left Monday with his family for a vacation in Door county.

An outdoor meeting at the Roy Harriman home, 1150 E. Pacific street, is being held today by Women's Union of First Baptist church. The Friendship class will meet Friday night at the same place. Last Sunday the Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, preached at the morning service on "When Trouble Comes."

A full schedule of quarterly conferences for Methodist churches in this district is on the program for the Rev. L. E. Schlagenhauf, district superintendent for Appleton district, this week. Communion Service

"Are Your Names Written in Heaven?" was the topic of the sermon given by the Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, last Sunday. Confessional and holy communion services will take place at 8:30 next Sunday at Zion, preceding regular services at 9 and 10:15. Registration will take place at 7 o'clock Friday evening at the parsonage.

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following is a passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The time for thinkers has come. Truth, independent of doctrines and time-honored systems, knocks at the portal of humanity. Contentment with the past and the cold conventionalism of materialism are crumbling away. Ignorance of God is no longer the stepping stone to faith. Mortals must find refuge in truth in order to escape the terror of these latter days. Truth makes a new creature, in whom old things pass away and all things become new."

Utility Chief Facing Manslaughter Charge

Waukesha—(P)—Preliminary hearing for George W. Mitchell, Kenilworth, Ill., president of the People's Gas Light and Coke company of Chicago, on a manslaughter charge in the automobile death of Mrs. Elsie Christensen, 38, of Racine, was set for Aug. 12 by Municipal Judge Newton W. Evans yesterday.

Mrs. Christensen was killed in a collision between cars driven by her husband Earl, and Mitchell near Mukwonago.

Mitchell, whose hip was injured, was to leave Waukesha Municipal hospital today. He posted a $2,000 surety bond.

Coroner Martin E. Fromm said Mitchell told him he had failed to stop for an arterial.

Woman in Jail Five Years Because She Refuses to Give Data on Estate

Chicago—(P)—Who said a woman can't keep a secret?

Mrs. Daisy Tegtmeyer today was rounding out five years in the Cook county jail, all because "she won't tell."

What this 53-year-old widow won't tell to the satisfaction of the courts is what disposition was made of part of a $300,000 estate.

It's a long story of legal complications that have been dragging through the courts for about 15 years.

Her husband, Edward Tegtmeyer, was trustee of an estate of his father, Henry. When Edward died in 1923 and Mrs. Tegtmeyer became trustee of his estate, minor heirs of the older Tegtmeyer filed a bill alleging they had $300,000 due.

Mrs. Tegtmeyer refused to give an accounting. The case continued

Vote Down Proposal For New High School For Joint District

Hortonville—A proposal to build a new school was voted down, 101 to 90, by members of the joint school district of Hortonville and Hortonville at an adjourned annual meeting last night at the high school.

The move to erect a new high school was begun two weeks ago when the annual school district meeting was held. A committee was named to recommend a site for the building so that if the proposal was adopted, an application for a government PWA grant could be made.

Purchase of the Earl Buchman and W. Gartzke property for $6,110 was recommended by the committee and the school district members also favored the site but opposed appropriation of funds for construction of the building.

Huge Pea Crop Is Source of Worry To Badger Cannerns

State Agricultural Authority Will Help Move 1938 Pack

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Because Wisconsin farmers raised too many peas this summer the Wisconsin Cannerns association and state agricultural officials are worried about the market situation.

Pea yields this summer, as well as most other canning crops, are abundant, reports Martin Verhulst, secretary of the Wisconsin Cannerns association, with the results that prices, despite the higher quality peas, are already lower than those received last year, and the northern harvests will not be completed before the first week in August.

However, Verhulst said, it is likely that both cannerns and farmers will complete the season with bigger profits than they realized during the 1937 season.

U. S. May Buy

Two avenues are open for the disposition of what is likely to be a considerable surplus after the final pea harvesting is finished this summer, he pointed out.

One is the federal surplus commodities corporation, which last winter bought huge quantities of the 1937 Wisconsin pack and turned them into federal relief channels.

The second solution is the enlistment of the aid of the new Wisconsin Agricultural authority, a quasi-public agency now being set up with public funds to promote Wisconsin agricultural in general, and specifically troubled state agricultural industries in particular.

Wilbur C. Carlson, new manager of the WAA, has already indicated that one of the first tasks of the authority will be the disposition through an intense selling campaign of the state's surplus pea supply.

"Unless something is done soon, a good many cannerns may go broke," he says. There is still a surplus on hand from last year's pea crop, and this year's crop will enormously increase that surplus. Some farmers haven't even been paid for last year's harvest," he reported.

Through consumer education in the large retail trade centers, Carlson hopes, some of the surplus may be distributed. Such a sales program would be backed up with direct advertising of all kinds.

The Wisconsin Agricultural authority, said Verhulst today, "can do a tremendous amount of good" in helping Wisconsin cannerns out of their present predicament. A selling campaign this year should be especially effective because of the unusually high quality of the Wisconsin pea crop, in some sections the best in a decade, he pointed out.

Verhulst said reports received at his office show that all vegetable canning crops in Wisconsin this year are exceptionally abundant. He has no direct information on fruit, he explained.

Truth was set for Aug. 12 by Municipal Judge Newton W. Evans yesterday.

Mrs. Christensen was killed in a collision between cars driven by her husband Earl, and Mitchell near Mukwonago.

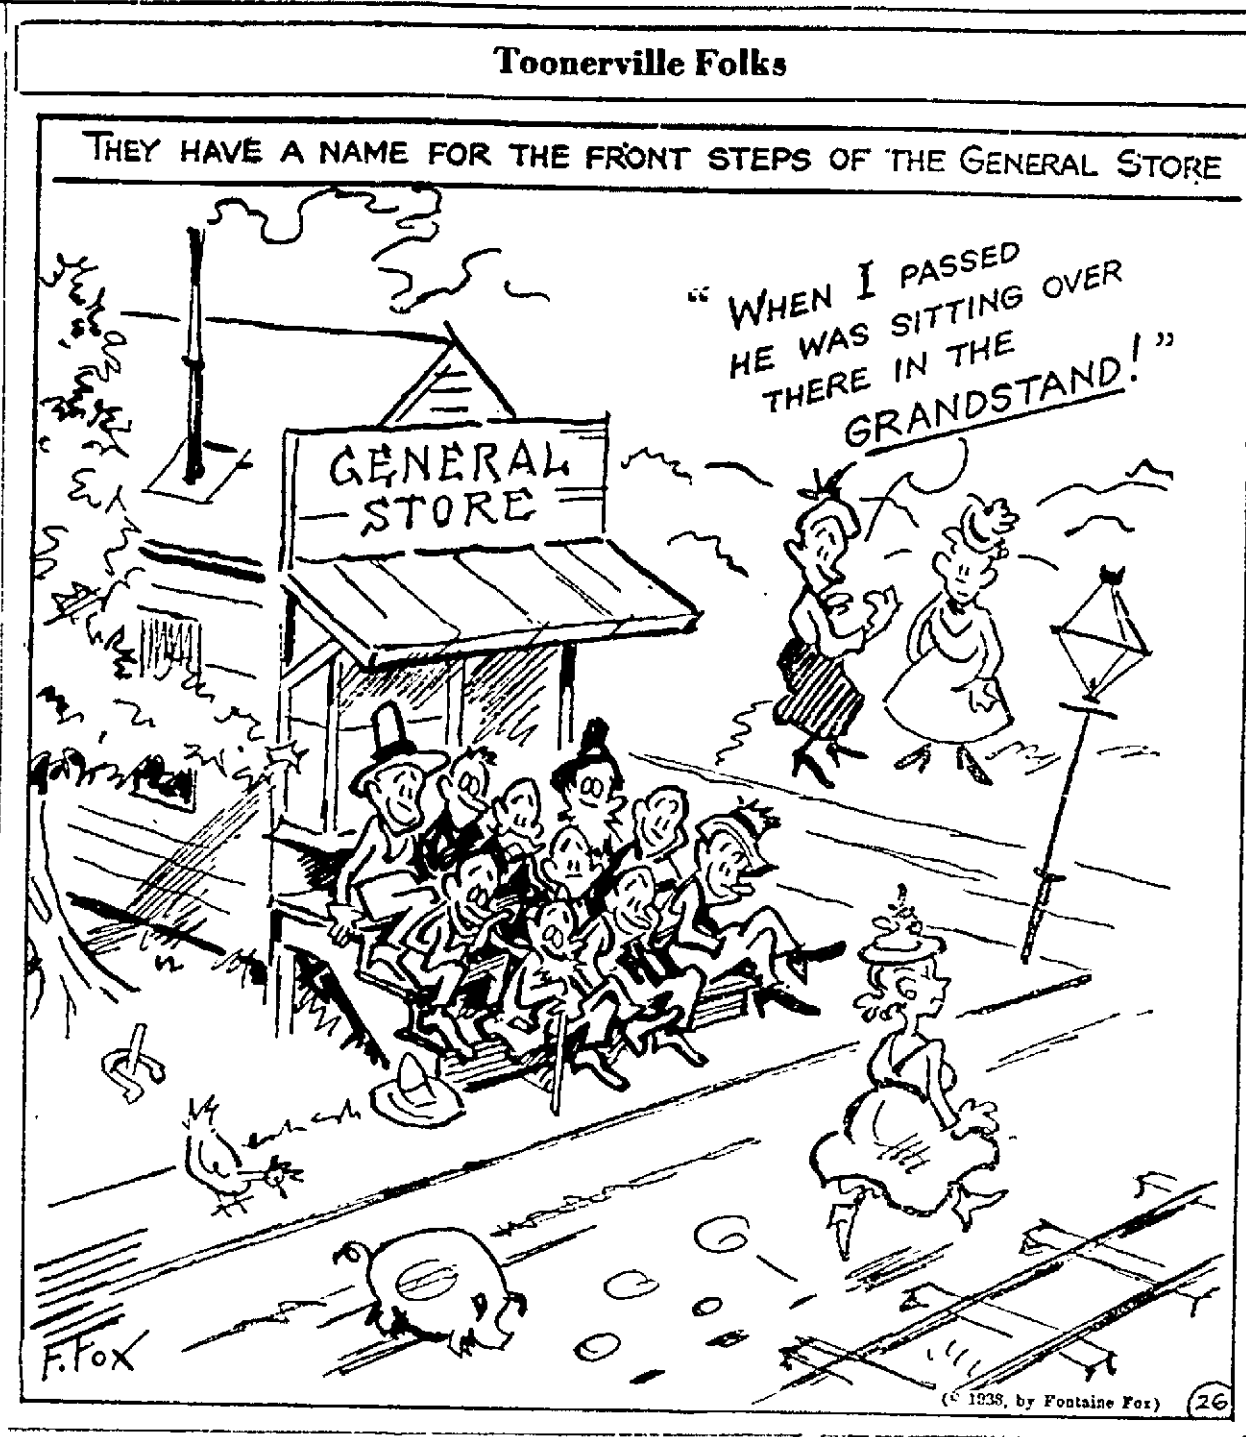

Mitchell, whose hip was injured, was to leave Waukesha Municipal hospital today. He posted a $2,000 surety bond.

Consider Next Move in Case Against Oil Firms

Washington—(P)—Assistant Attorney General Thurman W. Arnold discussed with other department of justice officials yesterday the government's next move in its prosecution of major oil companies on anti-trust charges at Madison, Wis.

Earlier, United States District Attorney John J. Boyle disclosed at Madison that the government had postponed asking a federal grand jury investigation of 10 oil companies and five officials on charges involving the Sherman anti-trust law.

Grant W. Kelleher, a federal attorney assigned to the new investigation, said it was postponed because Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone had ordered a new trial for three oil companies and fifteen individuals.

The attorney explained the delay was to enable Attorney General Cummings and assistant Attorney General Arnold to choose between retrying the oil companies to whom Judge Stone granted new trials or proceeding with the grand jury investigation. Kelleher said a decision probably would be reached within a week.

Green Bay Ordered To Grant Permit for Circus Showing Aug. 5

Green Bay—Issuance of a permit to the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto Combined circus to show here was ordered by Circuit Judge Henry Graess yesterday after hearing a mandamus action brought by the circus against city officials. The circus will show on Aug. 5.

City Attorney Thomas C. Dwyer, representing the officials, stated that the reason Mayor Alex Biemeret had refused to give the circus a permit on its application July 20 was that the date interfered with the Brown county fair and also that the circus had had labor troubles in Janesville when it showed there.

The circus claimed that the mayor, clerk and comptroller have no right to refuse it a license under the city ordinance and state statute, the circus being a legitimate business organization.

Three States Get Together to Boom Sales of Butter

Wisconsin Joins With Iowa, Minnesota in Advertising Campaign

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—A gigantic tri-state dairy promotion scheme with an immediate objective of getting 125,000 Americans to eat more butter appeared on the way to realization today as state agricultural officials prepared for another conference with leaders of Iowa and Minnesota in Minneapolis Saturday.

The three states lead the nation in the production of butter, in order, as follows: Minnesota first, Iowa, second, and Wisconsin third.

A couple of weeks ago agricultural officials of the two other states were asked to consider a proposal from Wisconsin to join in a combined advertising and promotion campaign, in which Wisconsin has been engaged with legislative appropriations for three years.

This week the three states will formulate a joint national program to expand the American market for butter and other dairy products.

Plans for raising the funds for the campaign have not yet been definitely decided upon, but it appears likely that the states will agree upon a nominal assessment on the creameries within their states. An assessment of 50 cents per 1,000 pounds of butter fat, the system now used in Minnesota's independent program, has been suggested.

The proposed program would operate independently of Wisconsin's regular dairy promotion activities, financed by a $75,000 biennial legislative appropriation, and emphasizing all Wisconsin dairy products and especially Wisconsin made cheese.

Impetus for the tri-state promotion program was given this summer when record cold storage holdings for both creamery butter and cheese piled up.

Butter stocks have been high for several months and with larger than usual into-storage movements during June, they totaled over 120,000,000 pounds for July 1, which is the largest on record for that date, state officials point out.

The July 1 stocks were about 40 per cent above those held a year ago and the five year average.

Total cheese held in cold storage on July 1 was nearly 115,000,000 pounds, or the high point for that date. Stocks have usually reached their peak on September 1. American cheese stocks on July 1 totaled 100,000,000 pounds, also the highest on record for that date, and compared with about 90,000,000 pounds at the same time a year ago.

New London Is Legion Titlist

Beats Florence and Will Compete in State Meet Friday

NEW LONDON — New London Legion Juniors returned from Oconto Falls yesterday afternoon regional baseball champions in Class A after defeating the Florence aggregation the second time, 4 to 1. Friday the New London squad will represent the Norris-Spencer post in the state tournament at Waukesha. The gang will travel in the New London school bus.

Junior Prahl hurled 3-hit ball, the opposing players scoring in the seventh frame when they bunched two singles and stole their way around. Prahl also led his teammates at the plate with three singles in four trips. He drove in the second run in the second inning after Berman tripled and Herres hit a 2-bagger.

Florence put in a new pitcher, Tiedman, in the third inning and here thereafter was limited to one an inning, but the locals worked two men around in the third. Twelve New London boys struck out but six drew walks. Prahl fanned nine and walked none.

New London played good ball and it was three up and three down for the challengers. Hertz showed well at first, making four putouts besides the usual assists.

Brewers Rained Out of 2 Games

At Minneapolis Today; Wyatt Will Seek Fifteenth Victory

Minneapolis—The Milwaukee Brewers, rained out of their doubleheader with Louisville last night, were at Minneapolis today, hoping for better weather. Whitlow Wyatt, who was to have pitched one of the games last night, still was Manager Allan Sotheron's first mound choice. Wyatt will be seeking his fifteenth victory.

The Brewers were in fifth place today, 71 games behind St. Paul, which held a two and a half game advantage, one of the biggest an American association leader has been able to muster in the recent four-way, first-place scramble, as it met the challenge today of second place Kansas City.

The Apostles bolstered their lead preparatory to the important four game series with the Blues by losing out Toledo 4 to 3 yesterday while Kansas City fell before Indianapolis 10 to 1.

A late rally punctuated by Tony York's homer in the eighth won the game for St. Paul.

Vance Page subdued the aspiring Blues on eight hits while his mates pounded two Kansas City hurlers for 15.

The big explosion of the day took place at Minneapolis where the seventh place Columbus Red Birds, last when you refer to the team batting averages, blasted away for 24 hits to sink Minneapolis, 21 to 9. Buddy Hasson, Red Bird first sacker, hit three homers and a single and came within one run of the record for runs batted in when he drove across eight. Two big innings, the fourth and ninth, brought Columbus seven and eight runs, respectively.

Mellow Brews Lose to Labor

Drop Deciding Game of Series by Score of 6 To 2 Sunday

Labor Local 931, which previous to last night hadn't won a league game and had copped something like eight of nine non-league contests, copped the rubber game of a series with the Mellow Brews Sunday at Pilsner park, 6 to 2. In the previous win, George Faux bested Em Mortell.

Trailing by a 1-0 score, Labor counted four times in the fourth and twice in the sixth to win. Winslow opened the frame with a hit but was tossed out at third. Vanden Boom walked, Verstege hit, Peters hit, Hammen was forced, Magill hit and Calmes hit.

The other two runs came when Diener doubled and VandenBoom homered. Batters got a triple for the losers.

Hammen tossed for the winners and gave three hits, fanned six and walked none. Branchford worked for the Brews and gave eight safeties, fanned four and walked three. The box score:

Whitehead May Return To Giants in a Month

NEW YORK — If Burgess Whitehead has his way he will be back with the Giants in three weeks. His side feels much better. His mother would rather he wait another month, but "Bats" says they call him down in eastern North Carolina wants to get back in harness real bad. Hank Wolfe, crack sports writer of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader, spent a couple of days in New York press boxes last week and didn't like the way they score hits and errors up here. He says they're too stingy with their errors and too lenient with their hits. We've heard the same complaint. Hank, but after all what the official scorer says goes.

Jack Stringham, all Rocky Mountain conference fullback from Brigham Young University in Utah, were out five headguys smacking the line last season. Since quitting school Jack has tried professional boxing and now has signed with the Brooklyn Football Dodgers. Pittsburgh and San Bernardino still deny it, but we say the Pirates have been fooling around with the idea of training in Miami next spring. They may change their minds and stick to California, but there have been things in the air and we doubt that even Bill Bernauer, president of the Pittsburgh club, will deny it.

Walter (Big Train) Johnson still is packing 'em in. He's barnstorming around with a Washington semi-pro team and usually tosses 'em up in batting practice. Remember Riley Smith, Cliff Battles and Charley Malone of professional football fame? Well, they're playing ball for the same soft drink club. Al Schacht packed 'em in at Minneapolis with the greatest crowd there in five years. Al says the majors want him back; but that he by no means will accept this year because he's booked solidly in the minors. Quite a feller, that Schacht and a great "bring 'em in" attraction wherever you put him.

Unless Lou Gehrig perks up he is unlikely to bat in his customary 100 runs this season. 25. Maury, here, flirts reports of any feud with Helen Jacobs. Are you still listening? News item: Terry keeps new talent for Giants. Giants can't agree among themselves if Dizzy Dean's pitching comeback is a complete success. They want to wait and see what Dizzy can do against them in the Polo Grounds. One reason why Whizzer White decided not to compete in the charity game at Chicago Aug. 21 is that he is going on the air for eight weeks as a sort of "Major Bowes" in a charity hunt program.

American association fans are getting a big kick out of the way the headguys of the Cardinal chain system are running wrong. They let Pittsburgh get Johnny Rizzo from their Columbus farm. Instead of Rizzo, the Cards picked Enos Slaughter who has been somewhat of a bust. The Denver Post baseball tournament which opened July 21, is one of the oldest in the country, starting in 1915. More power to Tony Galento who is up against the toughest guy he ever faced.

Rain Upsets Schedule At Tennis Tournament

Delafield — Rain upset the opening day schedule in the western junior and boys' tennis tournament yesterday, only four matches, all in the junior bracket, being played.

Larry Dee of San Francisco, seeded seventh, put away Bill Norman of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-1. Zyggy Jatezak, Milwaukee, won from W. C. Miles, El Dorado, Colo., 6-0, 6-1. Albert Eversdyke, Sheboygan, defeated John Kilbourne, Dayton, Ohio, 6-0, 6-0. Paul Wilson, Los Angeles, beat Robert Faas, Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-1.

Other juniors advanced by default. Red Reed of Denver progressed over Bob Hackett of Milwaukee, Walter Lauterbach of Plymouth, Wis., over E. J. Eisenstadt of Cleveland, and Richard Wade of Chicago over Dick Browne, Milwaukee.

PAUL MILLER SIGNS

Green Bay — Coach Carly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers yesterday announced signing of Paul Miller, halfback from South Dakota State. Miller, a veteran of two years with the Packers, is the 19th player lined up for the current season.

Cleveland and Boston Red Sox Divide Honors

Latter Takes the First Game, 4-0, Indians Cop Second, 3-0

BOSTON — After two pitching duels, the Indians and Red Sox remained just where they were before they started yesterday's doubleheader — Cleveland in second place a game back of the Yankees and Boston in third position another game and a half to the rear.

The Red Sox won the opener, 4-0, as Rookie Emerson Dickman outpitched the veteran Johnny Allen, who after winning 12 straight suffered his second setback of the season and his third in 23 games over two years. Mel Harder outpitched young Jim Bagby, however, 3-0, in the nightcap to give the Indians an even break.

Dickman held the Indians to three hits for his fifth victory as against two defeats. Earl Averill got to him for a scratch double in the second and that was all until Hal Trosky also doubled in the eighth. Sammy Hale got the other blow, a single in the ninth.

Keltner and Heath

Allen himself yielded only five hits before he was replaced by Bill Zuber at the start of the eighth. One of the blows was Jimmy Fox's 27th homer in the sixth after the Sox had scored once in the second on Higgins' double and Doerr's single and twice in the fifth on a walk, Higgins' single, Ken Keltner's error, and a fielder's choice.

Harder limited the Sox to five hits while the Indians were making the most of six off Bagby, who fanned nine. Bagby had the misfortune, however, to pitch a home run ball to Keltner in the third, his 17th homer of the year. In the sixth Thomas Heath tripled and scored on Averill's fly. The Tribe counted again in the ninth on Heath's infield single and Keltner's double.

Fauk Hurls and Bats Labor to Its First League Win

Fans 16 Fox River Batters And Sets Loop Strike-out Record

W ITH George Fauk fanning 16 batters and getting two hits in four tries, both of which counted heavily in the scoring, Labor 931 defeated the Fox River Paper company team by a 5 to 4 score last night in the American League.

The win was the first in league play for the Labors this season and Fauk set a 1933 strike-out record with his total of 16.

Fox River scored in the fourth to take a 1 to 0 lead when Murphy singled to left, stole second and went to third on an overthrow at second. W. Strutz fanned but Rammer singled to left and Murphy tailed.

In the eighth, after two were out, Lammers singled to left and went from first to third as Brockhaus beat out a bunt. Van moved to second unmoled and then Fauk singled for his first hit and Magill and Van Gomple tallied. George went to second on the throw to the plate and to third on an error. He scored on Calmes' hit which Murphy fumbled.

Fox River got back the runs in the eighth, after two were out, Lammers singled to left and went from first to third as Brockhaus beat out a bunt. On the next pitch Murphy doubled to left to score Lammers and send Brock to third. W. Strutz then hit a high, lazy fly to right and three of the Labor performers stopped and let it drop for a hit. Brock and Murphy both tallied on the miscue.

Going into the ninth trailing 4 to 3, Magill led off by grounding out. Van Gomple singled to left, stole second and took third on a passed ball. Hammen beat out an infield hit to score Van Gomple and tie the game. Hammen then stole second and scored when Fauk blasted a double down the third base line.

Peter Rau of LaCrosse took medalist honors in the 18-hole qualifying event of the junior tournament. His score was 39-43-81. Mike Benicrisotto, Racine, was next with an 84. Jack Ladky, Ozaquee, and Don Baird, Milwaukee, were third with 85. Match play in this division opens Wednesday.

Omro — Thousands lined the Fox river banks Sunday afternoon here, thrilling to the clatter of outboard motorboats as they were piloted past the judge's boat time and again in laps of the numerous heats.

There were fully 65 entries to the nine races that kept the river churning for about four hours. Spills at the sharp turns of the half mile course were numerous, but there were no injuries.

Of the greatest interest was the ramboat race that started off the afternoon events of the annual Omro regatta. Sixteen boats crossed the starting line, and 13 ran the course to Winneconne and return, a distance of about 16 miles.

This race was open to anyone with a boat and motor, not racing hulls or motors. The participants were required to register at Winneconne, drink 12 ounces of a liquid, and return to Omro.

First prize was won by Kirby Raab, Milwaukee, who ran the 16 miles in 32 minutes. He was followed in order by Bob Guttman, Manitowish; Wayne Snyder, Horicon; Lon Pawling, Winneconne; Gary Meyer, Elgin; Floyd Bricknell, Oshkosh; Edward Frerks, Allen O. Sohn, Plymouth; John Koelbl, Oshkosh; Carl Reitzner, Appleton; Albert J. Klavin, Oshkosh; Robert Johnson, Butte des Morts; and Edward Mantie, Kimberly.

Love on the Range

THE STORY SO FAR
Someone is out to bust the Rafter T ranch. Under the name of Abe Streeter, quick-fire "Blur" Ankrom takes a job there to help lovely Lee Trone. Ankrom immediately dislikes Ratchford, the sheriff, and when Colonel Struthers and his daughter Betty arrive for a visit, he recognizes Struthers as an impostor. Kelton Drean, Claydell, a neighboring rancher, is expected for a conference at the Trones. A shot is fired at Ankrom in the dark. Another shot rings out, and a body falls.

Chapter 12
The Dude Is Dead
"Good Lord!" choked a voice--a girl's voice. "It's Colonel Struthers!"
It was, Ankrom had known it instantly.
"Hold this lantern, somebody," Ratchford growled, and thrust it into Ankrom's hands. The sheriff then dropped to his knees beside Kelton Drean's form. When Ratchford got to his feet, his eyes met Ankrom's squarely.
"Pretty quick," he said, "we're all going to saunter over to the house--an' go inside an' stay there until daylight. Meantime, I don't want to catch anyone trampin' round over by that bunkhouse. This Struthers dude is dead."
A heavy sigh reached Ankrom's ears. It came from a man beside him. Looking up Ankrom saw that the man was Trone. The rancher's face looked haggard, his hands were clamped so tightly about his belt that their knuckles stood out like lumps of chalk.
Then Ankrom saw Lee Trone. Betty stood beside her. Lee's face he thought a trifle pale but her eyes were bright with interest--a little horror was in them, too. Betty's eyes were like burnt holes in a white counterpane, just now the rouge upon her cheeks gave her face a ghastly appearance.
"Daddy--daddy, it's Daddy!"
There were tears and laughter in her voice, and the laugh ran thru with hysteria. She swayed and Ankrom sprang to catch her, he scooped her up in his arms and strode angrily toward the house. Behind him came Ratchford's voice. "Trone, you an the others better go along, too. I'll be with you in a minute."
Lengthening his step to hold his lead, Ankrom gritted fiercely. "You little fool!"
They were close to the ranch-house now and light from the unshaded windows showed Betty's eyes come swiftly open. "Don't scold me--please, I had to see you. I've got to talk with you alone right away."
"We'll get no chance now," Ankrom cut in gruffly. "That sheriff, nobody's damn clown. He made sure this wasn't no bluff by sendin' them others with us. What did you want to talk to me about?"
She set a hand inside her dress. When it came out it held a gun. As Ankrom carried her into the house and laid her on a sofa, she held the gun out to him anxiously. "Quick--take it! You'll have to get rid of it for me. I mean--"
"Did you shoot Drean?"
"I had to. He wouldn't have missed you the second time." Her eyes grew large again, filled with apprehension. "Quick--put it out of sight! The others are coming!"
They were Ankrom heard their steps upon the veranda. Hastily he thrust the weapon--a short-barreled .32--out of sight beneath his coat. And none too soon.

"In This Room"
Lee Trone came into the room, her father and the others behind her. Ankrom lifted a hand to push back his hat and found his forehead moist. "Gosh," he said. "She looked right over, didn't she?"
Lee looked oddly at the girl with the closed eyes who lay so limply on the sofa. "I'll get some water," she said.
"Poor kid," Old Man Trone heaved a sigh. "Pretty tough on her, havin' her father shot down like that." The two punchers stood behind him, looking on with interest, hats in hand, mouths open.
Ankrom saw that Trone's glance, resting upon him, held a gleam of something he could not define. Clearing his throat, Trone said, "Did I understand you to tell the sheriff someone took a shot at you, Streeter?"
Someone shot a cigarette out of my mouth, yeah."
"Pretty good shooting for night work, don't you think?"
"Depends I was lightin' the cigarette I'd say. I made a pretty fair target."
"Do you think the same man fired both shots--the one at you and the one that downed the colonel?"
"Kind of hard to say," Ankrom evaded, and felt relieved when the sheriff came striding into the room. Lee came, too, bringing a towel and water. She passed Ankrom without a look and, bending above the sofa, began bathing Betty's forehead. "She looks awfully white," Lee said.
Ratchford flung the girls a disinterested glance, cleared his throat and looked at Trone. "Sit down boys," he growled, the words smacking more of a command than of an invitation. "We'll be here quite some spell an' I reckon we might as well be comfortable. Be at least four hours till daylight an' I make it nearer five."
For a moment it seemed to Ankrom that Trone was about to explode. Veins swelled in his neck and forehead before he got himself in

Indian Tells Club His People Need Greater Freedom

Mohegan Is Speaker at Meeting of New London Rotarians

New London—A plea for his people to be freed of the restrictions imposed by the United States government was voiced by Sam Miller, pure blooded Mohegan Indian of Gresham, Wis., in a talk to the New London Rotary club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon.

The government reservation set aside for the American Indians are making paupers of his people, Miller declared. He urged that they be allowed to go where they please and make their own way in the land of their ancestors. If left to themselves they can become equal to white people in any walk of life, he asserted. To back up the statement he pointed to the fact that Vice President Curtis, Will Rogers and other prominent and successful persons were of Indian descent.

Miller lives on a small farm near Gresham and is one of the last of the Mohegan tribe of the early east. He graduated from the Carlyle Institute of Pennsylvania in 1902 and in late years has spent much effort pleading for the freedom of his people and their acceptance as normal American citizens.

Next Monday the Rotary club will visit the Waupaca county asylum at Weyauwega in lieu of the regular luncheon meeting. They will be guests at the institution and make an inspection tour.

The club celebrated the birthday anniversary of Henry Spearbraker yesterday noon and the sale of his birthday cake added $2 to the eye-glass fund.

Game Club Directors Map Plans for Hunters' Party

New London—"We have our big fishermen's parties in the spring, why not a big party just like it in the fall for hunters and other outdoorsmen?"

That's what directors of the New London Fish and Game club have been thinking about for a long time. So last night they sat in a huddle and began plans for one of those parties that attracts the whole countryside.

The time and the place are still indefinite but it will be sometime around the middle of September, maybe Monday, the 19th. Prominent speakers, a lively program of entertainment, food and drink and a multitude of gifts to please a sportsman in any pursuit are the main points of attraction being considered.

Committee chairmen were named last night and preparations will be pushed further at a general meeting of the entire club on the regular night, Aug. 8. The directors met at the place of Alvin "Butch" Trambauer, newly elected secretary-treasurer of the club, who was seated last night to fill the unexpired term of L. J. Polaski.

William M. Knopstein was named general chairman of the party. William Karuhn is responsible for the hall; Frank Schumacher for advertising and publicity; Harry Allen for entertainment and the program; Rudolph Ploetz, for gifts. The latter will have a large sub-committee working with him. William Knopstein will handle the tickets.

Sometime next week the club plans to release the 115 pheasants which have been raised at the broader house and pens established at the Hatten Recreation park. The birds will be fully able to take care of themselves by next week.
